Mine No. 1 is practically a new property. It has 26 entries, 15 miles of workings and a main incline shaft of one and one-half miles in length. The mine has been recognized as a dangerous property for some time on account of the large amount of gas, but the system of ventilation has been so good that an accident was not anticipated.

FAILED TO KEEP SUICIDE PACT

Esmarch's Nerve Gave Way When He Saw Friend Die.

New York, June 30.—Rudolph Esmarch is under arrest in Hoboken, N. J., on the charge of manslaughter, he having failed to live up to a suicide pact. Charles Borowsky, a life-long friend of Esmarch's, committed suicide last Thursday. Later Esmarch met another friend, Jacob Roelle, at the dead man's house where, according to the police, the two agreed to follow their companion the next day. They met in a saloon and, borrowing two glasses, retired to a rear room. A few minutes later Esmarch came out with carbolic acid in the glass, placed it on the bar, remarking, "The other took it; I did not." Roelle died an hour later.

CRUM IN FAVOR OF LYNCHINGS

Charleston's Collector of Customs Shocks Negroes.

"Lynching," He Declares, "Is Not a Race Problem, But Is General All Over the Country," Saying This in a Chicago Speech.

Chicago, Ills., June 30.—(Special.)—Collector W. D. Crum, of Charleston, S. C., has shocked his fellow negroes by advocating lynching. At a meeting tonight he said:

"Lynchings savor of the barbarism of the dark ages, but we must think of the crimes that provoke them. These crimes are so atrocious that no punishment is too severe for them.

"Lynching is not a race problem," said Dr. Crum. "There is no north or south, but the form of unlawful punishment is general all over the country. The most horrible lynching which ever took place in this country occurred in Delaware only a few days ago. Such punishments savor of the barbarisms of the dark ages, but we must consider the crimes that provoke them. They are so atrocious that no punishment is too severe.

"Too many persons denounce lynchings without considering their cause. If the law was quick and decisive there would be fewer lynchings.

"The remedy is to exterminate the horrible wretches who commit the crimes—not by killing them, but by teaching them better."

Knapp's Trial for Wife Murder.

Hamilton, Ohio, June 30.—In the trial of Alfred Knapp for wife murder today there was a legal fight over the admission of Knapp's confessions. Judge Belden admitted the confessions, which were read. The state will close its case tomorrow.

SCHWAB SHELVED BY STEEL TRUST

W. E. Corey Named To Assume Duties of President.

Schwab Nominally Retains His Position, But Corey Will Be Real Head of Great Corporation. Frick Was Offered Presidency.

New York, June 30.—Reports prevalent for months past that Charles M. Schwab would retire from the presidency of the United States Steel Corporation culminated today in the appointment of an assistant to the president, of W. E. Corey, president of the Carnegie Steel Company. The formal announcement was made by Richard Trimble, secretary of the finance committee, in the following form:

"In consequence of the continued ill-health of the president, he has requested the appointment of an assistant to perform the active duties of the presidency, and at today's meeting of the finance committee W. E. Corey, president of the Carnegie Steel Company, was appointed to this position."

Announcement of Mr. Corey's appointment occasioned no surprise in financial circles, where it had been a matter of common knowledge that at least one important change was pending in the personnel of the steel corporation's affairs.

The finance committee of the steel corporation is dominated, according to popular belief, by Mr. Morgan and his friends. One of its leading members is H. C. Frick, who was induced by Mr. Morgan to accept a place on the committee. The strongest pressure was brought to bear on Mr. Frick in March last to accept the presidency of the corporation, but Mr. Frick resolutely declined. None of the officials of the steel corporation would discuss Mr. Corey's appointment or the causes that led to it.

GIRLS ATTACKED BY MAD STRIKERS

Serious Riot in Chicago Due to Labor Trouble.

Girls Who Replaced Strikers Are Assaulted as They Leave Factory. Pistols Used To Defend Girls and Four Persons Are Shot.

Chicago, June 30.—A serious riot occurred this evening on West Van Buren street between a number of strikers who walked from the plant of the Kellogg Switch Board Company some time ago and three men who were escorting home a number of girls who had gone to work in the factory. During the trouble a number of shots were fired and four persons are known to be hurt.

Detectives Quackenbush and Connell left the place in company with six girls, whom they were escorting to their homes. They were followed by a large number of strikers, who pelted them with stones and sticks. After going several blocks the situation became so serious that the officers drew their revolvers.

George Robertson, a non-union cable splicer, came to the aid of the officers, and in the fight that followed was seriously beaten. Quackenbush and Connell fired several shots each and a number of strikers also used their revolvers. A spectator who took no part in the fight was shot, but not seriously injured, by Quackenbush, and Edward Wilson, a waiter who joined in the attack upon the girls, was shot in the leg. Robertson and Quackenbush were badly injured, but will recover. The police made a number of arrests.

POPE STROLLS IN HIS GARDENS

For the First Time This Year Holy Father Takes a Walk.

Rome, June 30.—The pope descended to the various gardens this morning for the first time this year and was driven about for an hour and a half. He seemed to enjoy the air immensely and noticed the changes made in the gardens since last year. He was especially interested in the growth of vines planted by himself and made inquiries regarding the prospects of the vintage. When the pope returned to his apartments he seemed not in the least fatigued and received several bishops.

GOD PORTRAYED WEARING HORNS

Rabbi Kohler Makes Bitter Attack on Delitzsch's Views.

Kohler Alleges German Savant Assigns Horns to God and a Sexual Dualism—Dr. Elzas, of Charleston, Criticises Kohler's Paper.

Detroit, Mich., June 30.—A paper on "Assyriology and the Bible" in answer to Delitzsch on "Babel and Bible," by Rabbi K. Kohler, Ph. D., of New York, was the feature of the forenoon session of the central conference of the American rabbis at Temple Bethel. Rabbi Kohler said:

"The question to us is how a man like Delitzsch can be so carried away by prejudice and passion as to drag the book of books in the dust and impute to the God of Israel an unrighteousness and sensuality, nay, assign to Him horns and a sexual dualism. It may be said of these lectures, 'Whatever is true in them is not new, and whatever is new is not true.' It is the characteristic sign of the time that any professor or writer in Germany that craves popularity today needs but to blow the horn of anti-Semitism to receive the favor of high and low. And the innocent blood that ran the streets of Kishinef may be traced to such German sham utterances. There is little doubt in my mind that ultra-conservative training of Delitzsch made him the despiser, the mocker of the Old Testament."

Dr. Barnet A. Elzas, of Charleston, S. C., sharply criticised Rabbi Kohler's paper. His vigorous sentences for a moment threatened the calm of the gathering and resulted in Dr. Kohler interrupting the speaker and demanding that he be called to order. Dr. Elzas said:

"Following up the American Jewish literature of the last twenty years, one cannot help being impressed with the fact that the chief results of the criticism of which Delitzsch is the expounder are admitted by leading men in the Jewish pulpit. I think that Dr. Kohler's paper in pointing out the faults of Delitzsch's conclusions lacked the positive element, as Dr. Kohler did not state what the Jews do believe of the Bible."

As soon as Dr. Elzas saw his criticism was objectionable he immediately retracted what he had said and added that he did not wish it understood that he would in any way cast reflections on the paper, which he considered valuable, scientific literature.

After the discussion, Dr. Kohler's paper was adopted as official Jewish literature, and copies will be printed and sent to Emperor William, before whom the lectures on "Babel and Bible" were first delivered.

OUTLAW RAIDS ATLANTA HOMES

Notorious Thief Captured While Sleeping in the Woods.

Burglarized Three Residences and Then Took to the Country To Get Rest—He Is a Murderer and Escaped Convict.

Burglar, horse thief, bandit, and, in fact, the most all-round outlaw the police ever had to deal with, was locked up at police barracks yesterday at noon when Will Lemons, alias Ed Hudson, negro ex-convict and murderer, was placed behind the bars. He was captured at Constitution, Ga., a station on the Southern railroad, 5 miles from the city, and brought here by the three men who caught him.

In one night in Atlanta he stole a horse, burglarized three residences, tried to break into a store and was shot at, and then rode off into the country to get a little rest.

Lemons, that is his right name, arrived in Atlanta two days ago from Texas, so he states. Monday night he decided to begin operations and he first went to the home of Dr. T. D. Longino, No. 61 Park street, West End, and stole a fine horse. In his notorious work as a criminal he has always preferred riding to walking. He next visited a negro's house near by and stole a saddle. Mounted on the horse, with a large pistol, loaded and buckled about his waist, he went to the residence of Fred A. Cummings, No. 685 Washington street, which he burglarized and robbed of several dollars in cash. Some of the ladies in the house heard the outlaw as he galloped off on his stolen horse.

On a Burglary Tour.

Lemons next burglarized the home of a man named Price, just outside the city limits, where he got some silverware. Riding out into the country he came upon the store of a negro and this he tried to burglarize, but was shot at and he fled on the horse.

By this time day was breaking, and the burglar, feeling drowsy, decided to take a nap in the woods. Fearing he might be molested he made a bluff at terrorizing the people at Constitution, Ga., by riding up and down the road several times with his pistol in his hand. After this act of a bravado he rode into a thick clump of bushes, fastened the horse and went to sleep with his pistol under his head for a pillow.

Postmaster Crosby, at Constitution, and two other men who had been watching the negro, armed themselves and went after him. They found him peacefully sleeping and they slipped up to where he lay and seized his pistol before he awoke.

While being escorted to the city he made three attempts to get away, but failed. Then he begged and pleaded, but to no avail.

Murderer and Convict.

Lemons is an escaped convict. He was sent to the coal mines at Coalburg, Ala., about four years ago for murder, having killed another negro. His sentence was twenty years, but he escaped before one year had been served. He went to Chicago, where he secured a position as porter on a Pullman sleeper. Next he visited Houston, Tex., where he remained about a year.

ATLANTA GETS A NEW SCHOOL

Congregational Education Society Has Purchased Site.

Seminary of Theology Will Be Opened at Once and Cottages Will Be Erected for Students for the Ministry Who Are Married.

Boston, Mass., June 30.—(Special.)—The Congregational Educational Society announced tonight that it has voted to purchase, at a cost of $5,600, 9 acres of land just outside of the city limits of Atlanta, Ga., for the site of a theological seminary. The land is known as the Sherman estate and is said to be finely situated on a hill overlooking the city and a new boulevard recently constructed.

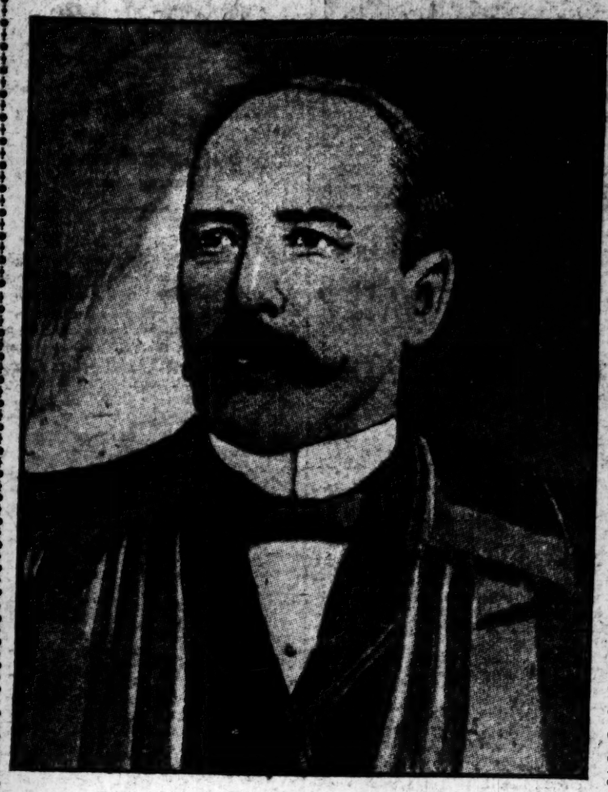

Cottages for married students will be erected this summer. This institution is exclusively for whites and intended to supply Congregational ministers for the increasing numbers of churches of that denomination in the south.

JUDGE ALTON PARKER GIVEN WARM WELCOME

JUDGE ALTON B. PARKER,
Of New York, Who Reached Atlanta Last Night, Coming as the Guest of the Georgia Bar Association.

New York Chief Justice Reached the City Last Night.

PUBLIC RECEPTION TODAY AT STATE HOUSE

Judge Parker Will Be Guest of Honor at Banquet at the Kimball—Goes to Tallulah Falls Thursday Morning with Georgia Lawyers.

Judge Alton B. Parker and Mrs. Parker, of New York, arrived in Atlanta last evening from the north on the Seaboard to find a large number of admiring friends to give him welcome to the Capital City of the Empire State of the South.

He was formally greeted by President Burton Smith, of the Georgia Bar Association, and Captain Clifford L. Anderson, who was appointed to welcome the chief justice of the New York court of appeals in behalf of the members of the Atlanta bar.

Associate Justice Lumpkin was there to extend the glad hand of personal friendship, as was also W. L. Peel, Mrs. Peel and several others. There were also many interested persons who gathered at the station to see this distinguished visitor who has been so conspicuously mentioned as a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination. It was evident, too, that all of these were most pleasantly impressed with his appearance and he was easily distinguishable from the many other passengers who came to Atlanta on the same train.

Immediately after his arrival, Judge Parker and Mrs. Parker were driven to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peel, whose guests they will be during their stay here.

Public Reception Today.

Today at noon the eminent jurist of Gotham will be presented to the supreme court and later a public reception will be held in the court room.

Later in the day he will be presented to the general assembly, to the senate by President Howell and to the house by Speaker Morris.

At the same time these attentions are being shown Judge Parker, Mrs. Parker will be the guest of honor at a reception at the home of Mrs. Peel, on Peachtree street.

Judge Parker will be the guest of honor at a banquet given by the members of the Georgia Bar Association at the Kimball this evening. Thursday morning Judge Parker goes to Tallulah Falls.

Both Judge Parker and Mrs. Parker seemed but little tired from their trip and spent last evening on the broad veranda of Mr. Peel's home, meeting a number of representative Atlantans, both professionally and socially, who dropped in to informally extend their respects to the distinguished visitors.

Judge Parker as He Appears.

This is a brief character sketch of Judge Alton B. Parker, the man as he appeared to a representative of The Constitution when seen at the home of W. L. Peel, on Peachtree street, shortly after his arrival last evening.

Eminently a jurist in his every action and appearance, Judge Parker is preeminently a leader among men.

Tall to the 6-foot mark, he is broad shouldered and there is in his every motion and method even of speaking those unmistakable characteristics that mark a reserve strength that is the God-given portion to but the few.

Judge Parker must be on or just across

FATALLY SHOT LOVE BLESSES HIS ASSASSIN

Comptroller of Texas Shot to Death in Capitol by Discharged Employe.

SLAYER OF COMPTROLLER TURNS GUN ON HIMSELF

Just Before Dying Comptroller Love, Speaking of His Murderer, Said "May the Lord Bless Him and Forgive Him"—Then Dyes.

Austin, Tex., June 30.—Frenzied by supposed wrongs, W. G. Hill, an ex-attache of the state comptroller's office, this morning at a few minutes past 10 o'clock, entered the private office of State Comptroller R. M. Love and killed him by means of two well-directed bullets from a large caliber revolver. As Hill turned to flee he was intercepted by Chief Clerk Stevens, of the department, who engaged him in a scuffle, during which his revolver was accidentally exploded. The bullet entered Hill's abdomen, causing a wound from which he died at 3 o'clock this afternoon, three hours after the death of the man whose life he sought.

Thus, in brief, is told the story of the double tragedy, the first assassination ever chronicled in the Texas capital. The shooting has thrown the town and state into a commotion, but the death of the assassin, as well as his victim, has closed the story in one chapter.

Act of Madman.

As to what caused the shooting, none can explain, other than that it was the act of a madman. Hill had been an employee of the comptroller's office for ten years preceding Love's term of office. He was let out by Mr. Love when the latter took charge, and it is presumed that this fact preyed upon his mind until he went insane. This morning he went to the capitol, entered Mr. Love's private office, spoke to him cheerfully, shook hands, and handing him a letter to read, sat down at the invitation of the comptroller. No sooner had Mr. Love begun the reading of the letter than Hill sprang to his feet, and firing two shots into the body of Mr. Love, one taking effect just above, and the other immediately below the heart. Mr. Love screamed, dropped the letter and sprang half forward toward his assisin, then staggered and fell backward.

Hill, seeing that his purpose had been accomplished, turned to make for the door. He was intercepted by Chief Stevens, who grappled with him and was wrestling with him when Hill's pistol was accidentally discharged, the bullet entering Hill's abdomen. He fell a dead weight in Steven's arms, and was lowered gently to the floor, where he lay until taken to the hospital. He died at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Love was given all medical attention possible, but died within an hour after the shooting.

Just before dying Comptroller Love made the following statement:

"Mr. Hill shot me. He presented a letter of indorsement to me for a place in the department. I was reading the letter when he shot me. I had asked him about his brother's wife's death. I regretted her death very much. Mrs. Hill was a good woman. I have no idea why he shot me. May the Lord bless him and forgive him. I cannot say any more."

Letter of the Assassin.

The letter that Hill gave to Love reads as follows:

"Austin, Tex., ——, 1903.—Colonel R. M. Love, State Comptroller—Dear Sir: Public office is a public trust. Public officers are created for the service of the people, and not for the aggrandizement of a few individuals. The practice of bartering department clerkships for private gain is a disgrace to the public service, and in this nefarious traffic you are a record-breaker.

"You have robbed the state employees and your incompetent administration has prompted others to rob the state.

"The man who, claiming to be a Christian, deprives others of employment without cause, is a base hypocrite and a tyrant.

"The greatest mind that ever gave its wisdom to the world; the mind of all others most capable of 'umpiring the munity between right and wrong,' said, 'You take my life when you do take from me the means by which I live.'

"If that be true, you are a murderer of the deepest crime. Although I cannot help myself, before laying life's burdens down, I shall strike a blow—feeble though it be—for the good of my deserving fellow-men.

"For the right against the wrong.
"For the weak against the strong.
"Yours truly,
"W. G. HILL."

Both Men Leave Families.

Mr. Hill was a quiet and gentlemanly person, and was never known to have been addicted to any bad habits. At the time of the shooting he was holding a good position here in the city, so that no dire want could not have instigated the act and frenzy that prompted the shooting. It is the opinion of all, that it was the act of an insane man. Immediately after the shooting, and while Hill was still lying in the corridor, a bottle of laudanum was taken from his pocket, and reaching for it, he said: "Let me take that and die easy." This has led many to believe that he contemplated suicide following his shooting of the comptroller. Both men have families surviving them. Comptroller Love's remains were shipped tonight to his old home in Limestone county, for interment, and Hill's remains will be buried here tommorow.

NEW YORK MAN DEAD IN MACON

H. H. Huggins Found Dead in Bed---Morphine in Whisky.

By E. C. Bruffey.

Constitution Bureau, 467 Second Street, Macon, Ga., June 30.—(Special.)—H. A. Higgins, who has been representing a New York house throughout the south for some time past and who reached Macon last on the 23d instant, was found dead in bed at the Brown House this morning by a chambermaid.

Higgins was about 48 years of age and was well known to the southern merchants who deal in his line. Soon after reaching Macon last week Higgins began drinking, and though he made no noise about it he managed to keep a good jag aboard.

Saturday afternoon he was about the office and was in a passable condition. That night he retired and remained in his room all Sunday and Monday, drinking what he wanted without going out after it. Early this morning the chambermaid making her rounds found him dead in his bed and at once reported her discovery at the office.

The coroner was notified, and with a jury made an investigation. In the room were found whisky and morphine, as well as a syringe by which morphine could be taken hypodermically. One bottle contained liquor and in it was a sediment the coroner believed to have been morphine, which had been emptied into the bottle. All the circumstances indicated that death had resulted from a dose of morphine, but there were no indications of a suicidal intent and the verdict of the jury so declared.

Telegrams were sent to Higgins' house, the American Wood and Machinery Company, 136 Liberty street, New York, advising the proprietors of Higgins' death. The remains were turned over to Burghard, the undertaker, to await instructions.

To Colonel Neill's telegrams a reply came this afternoon from New York stating that Higgins' son would start at once for Macon to take charge of the remains. The son will reach the city tomorrow afternoon or night and until then nothing can be said as to the disposition of the body. It is presumed that it will be taken east for interment.

Street Cars in Collision.

Macon, Ga., June 30.—(Special.)—Two street cars collided this morning on Fourth street between Pine and Oak, and one of the cars was so badly damaged that it had to be taken to the repair shops. Motorman Boutwell, who was on the front end of the car, had a hand so badly smashed that he was compelled to drop work. The injured member was dressed by a surgeon and it may be several days before Motorman Boutwell will be able to resume his duties.

Dennis Keating Very Ill.

Macon, Ga., June 30.—(Special.)—Dennis Keating, once one of the most extensively known undertakers in Macon, is at his home desperately ill. Mr. Keating was compelled to retire from business several years ago on account of ill-health and for a time it appeared as though the change was benefiting him. Some weeks ago he began failing and now is in a semi-conscious condition. His attending physicians entertains little hope of his recovery.

White Men Sent to Gang.

Macon, Ga., June 30.—(Special.)—Jeff Amerson and W. A. Hendrix, two white men, recently convicted in the city court, one for gaming, the other for wife beating, were this morning carried to the county chaingang, where they will serve terms imposed upon them by Judge Hodges, before whom they were tried.

Outlers Effect Compromise.

Macon, Ga., June 30.—(Special.)—The Outler Mercantile Company, of Dublin, a corporation which entered the bankruptcy court a few weeks ago, has effected a settlement with its creditors and is now ready to begin business unincumbered. The company offered 50 cents on the dollar and placed the amount necessary to make good its offer in the hands of Trustee Lane. The creditors were satisfied that the Outler company had done its best and accepted the offer. Judge Speer gave his indorsement to the proposition and the money will now be turned over to the creditors.

Branch Greatly Improved.

Macon, Ga., June 30.—(Special.)—Branch, the Lumber City saw mill man, who jumped from a rapidly moving passenger train on the Macon, Dublin and Savannah road last week with his partner, Peter Yates, the latter of whom died from injuries received, is much better today.

Safe Cracked at Dalton.

Dawson, Ga., June 30.—(Special.)—Burglars entered the depot of the Central railroad in Dawson last night and cracked the company's safe, securing about $300 in cash. The crime was not discovered until this morning at 6:30 o'clock when L. A. Cook, the ticket agent, opened up for the day's work.

COLUMBUS TO GO FAR FOR WATER

City May Pipe Supply From Harris County, Sixteen Miles Away.

Columbus, Ga., June 30.—(Special.)—Columbus may get its drinking water from the springs and mountain streams of Harris county, 16 miles away. The city water commissioners are having surveys made of all the proposed water works systems which have been suggested since the citizens voted bonds for a municipal water plant, and among others the Blue Spring system, in Harris county, has been examined.

The Blue Spring Company engineers state that the water from the two sheds can be united, and that they will furnish something like 6,000,000 per day, which is as much as will be required by the city of Columbus for a great many years to come.

Another Mill for Columbus.

Columbus may have another large cotton mill. It is reported that at the annual meeting of the Eagle and Phenix stockholders tomorrow E. N. Clemence, treasurer of the mills, will not stand for reelection. It is understood tonight that Mr. Clemence will remain a citizen of Columbus, and with others will erect a $300,000 cotton mill for the manufacture of colored goods. The mill is to be fitted with the most modern machinery and employing a large number of operatives. Mr. Clemence has been a cotton and woolen manufacturer thirty-two years. At the age of 18 years he was the youngest mill superintendent in the New England states, and he has been with the Eagle and Phenix mills twenty-three years and has large interests here.

TWO COMPANIES UNDER ARREST

Disbandment May Follow Disobedience of Orders.

Columbus Troops Went To Dance in Defiance of Colonel Wooten's Orders—Officers May Be Reduced to Ranks in Consequence.

Griffin, Ga., June 30.—(Special.)—At 12 o'clock today the Second and Fourth regiments of Georgia state troops closed the most successful week's camp ever held by Georgia troops at any place.

Most of the soldiers left camp at once on special trains, the Columbus companies remaining over until the 6 o'clock evening train on the Southern.

Adjutant General West, of Atlanta, was at the camp this morning, coming down from Atlanta at 10 o'clock last night with Colonel Obear. He is here closing up matters concerning the encampment and stated to a Constitution reporter this morning that this had been the most satisfactory and beneficial tour of duty the Georgia soldiers had ever known. To Colonel Wooten all of the praise that has been heaped upon his work here is a source of pleasure, as it shows that his work and the work of his men is known and appreciated. He has spared himself no labor and has by his determined stand for strict order and stern discipline been responsible for the success of the past week.

Columbus Troops in Trouble.

The sensation of the encampment has just leaked out and it may be that events of the last few hours may cause the disbandment of company C and company G of the Fourth Georgia troops and the reduction in ranks of several of their officers.

Yesterday there was some slight disorder in town on account of a difficulty between a soldier and a negro and on last night Colonel Wooten issued orders forbidding the soldiers from coming to Griffin.

All obeyed the orders except the two Columbus commands. These companies had as their guests the Young Ladies' Home Guard, of Columbus, which consists of some of that city's most charming young ladies. A competitive drill had been arranged between this company and a detachment of the Columbus Guards at the opera house, after which an elegant dance was to be held at the Commercial Club.

These two companies refused to obey orders and came to town in a body. One of the companies left only five men in camp. Colonel Wooten was highly incensed and instantly ordered the arrest of both companies. This arrest was made at once, some of the men being carried from the ball room.

They are still under arrest and must await the action of the military court before regaining their good standing in the state troops. It is said that Colonel Wooten will recommend the disbandment of the Columbus companies and the reduction to rank of some of the officers.

All of the parties concerned have been very reticent and refuse to be interviewed, but these facts are authentic and reliable. It is decidedly the sensation of the year in military circles and promises to bring out very spicy doings before the incident is closed.

Some say that the officers did not understand orders, but it seems that all other officers of the two regiments understood them.

The two Columbus companies are as good as any in Georgia, being composed of the very best young men in Columbus and the whole affair is quite unfortunate and deplorable, being the only unpleasant incident of the encampment. Its termination will be watched with interest throughout Georgia.

Adjutant Nash's Work.

The man who has been responsible for much of the satisfactory manner in which this camp has been held is the able and energetic post adjutant, J. Q. Nash, of Barnesville. Colonel Nash was detailed from the adjutant general's headquarters as post adjutant and has performed his duties well and faithfully. He has a splendid military record, having received his training at Reinhart college at Walesca, Ga., and at Gordon institute, Barnesville.

During his last year at Barnesville he was cadet major and his name is entered upon the army register as the first honor graduate of that institution. He was commander at Gordon institute for four years and has been lieutenant colonel and inspector general of rifle practice for five years.

This morning Colonel Wooten, in a nice talk, presented the cannon that has been used at Camp Northen to the Griffin Rifles in recognition of their splendid service and excellent record. This company is commanded by Captain M. J. Daniel, who is the equal of any volunteer captain in Georgia in all that pertains to military work. His lieutenants are W. H. Belk and J. T. Truitt.

HELD ON A SERIOUS CHARGE.

Two Respectable White Boys Locked Up on Charge of Attempting To Hold Up Negro.

J. B. Johnson, Jr., of 24 East Baker street, and Leon Terrell, of 79 East Harris street, two white youths of good families, were arrested last night about midnight by Special Officer Barefeield on the charge of trying to hold up a negro on the corner of Piedmont avenue and Gilmer street.

The officer states that he saw the boys seize the negro and heard the negro yell: "Police." He says he chased the boys, who ran, and overtook them after a long race.

The boys say they were near the negro when another negro assaulted him, and they ran because they thought the police might think they were implicated in the affair. They did not give any satisfactory explanation why they were out so late at night.

Jobson's father is a jeweler on Whitehall street. Terrell is the son of a widow. Both boys are well-dressed and not such as are usually locked up by the police.

The police are trying to find the negro who it is said was attacked by the boys.

HARD AT WORK ON SCHEDULES

Macon Merchants Determined Not to Lose Outside Trade.

By E. C. Bruffey.

Constitution Bureau, 467 Second Street, Macon, Ga., June 30.—(Special.)—The business men of Macon are determined not to succumb to the handicap placed upon them by the awkward schedules which went into effect Sunday last. The chamber of commerce and the citizens working in conjunction with it have not abandoned the hopes of changes expressed at the meeting Friday last and are still working away on that line.

But today merchants not members of the chamber have taken steps to push their trade and through a committee composed of C. D. Pearson, Abe Lesser and B. M. Howard, each of whom is a member of the chamber, have issued a call for a mass meeting of business men at the chamber of commerce tomorrow afternoon when plans for giving Macon house a systematic advertising will be discussed. The call reads:

To Every Business Man in Macon—At the chamber of commerce hall tomorrow (Wednesday) afternoon at 6:10 o'clock a meeting will be held by the business houses of Macon to inaugurate a plan to further increase the business of Macon through shoofly trains on the Georgia railroad, the Georgia Southern and Florida and the Albany branch of the Southwestern railroad, and such other lines as may give suitable schedules. If you want your firm to reap the benefits, you are invited to be present. If you want to increase your trade, you cannot afford to depend upon others. Your presence is necessary.

ABE LESSER,
B. M. HOWARD,
C. D. PEARSON,
Advertising Committee Chamber of Commerce.

The schedule committee of the chamber of commerce, Arthur L. Dasher, chairman; I. B. English, R. J. Taylor, T. D. Tinsley and Howard M. Smith, convened at the chamber at noon today. Letters from Superintendent Hale, of the Central, relative to resolutions adopted at the meeting of the chamber and merchants last Friday, which had been transmitted, to him, were read by Secretary Anderson. The committee was not at all satisfied with Superintendent Hale's reply and will seek further conferences with him.

GILLMAN ESTATE DIVIDED

Appears That Frazer Gillman Fails To Receive Share of Property.

According to a story received last night from New York, regarding the ending of the long litigation over the estate of the late George Gillman, millionaire tea merchant, it appears that Frazer Gillman, a relative, formerly of Atlanta, does not receive any share of the property. Miss Gillman put in a claim for a share of the estate, which has been involved in a legal contest in the United States court in New York.

New York, June 30.—Except for the claim of Mrs. Helen Potts Hall, which is still pending, the long litigation over the estate of the late George F. Gillman, millionaire tea merchant, ended today with the issuance of a decree by Judge Lacombe, in the United States circuit court, providing for a contract of compromise.

According to terms of the contract, George Hartford, the manager of Mr. Gillman's business, who claimed that a contract had been made with him, making him a partner, is given all of the $700,000 common stock and $150,000 of the 6 per cent preferred stock in the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company. The corporation which has taken over the entire business maintained under that name, but not incorporated as such. The administrators of Mr. Gillman's estate, his nephew, E. L. Norton, and his half-brother, Theodore Gillman, are given the remainder of the preferred stock, amounting to $1,250,000.

This statement was agreed upon, according to counsel, that the immense business interests might be kept intact.

Mr. Gillman's business was maintained under the name of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, but it was not incorporated. About a year and a half ago the administrators secured the incorporation of a company with the same name, but which existed only in name until last Saturday, when the transfer of the stock of the old company, $1,400,000 preferred at 6 per cent, and $700,000 common was turned over to the new corporation.

STRIKE BEGINS AT BIRMINGHAM

Efforts of Miners and Operators to Arrange Scale Fail.

Birmingham, Ala., June 30.—The miners and operators failed to agree this afternoon and a strike begins tomorrow.

The miners, who had yesterday held elections in their locals, offered to accept the operators' proposition of 2 1-2 cents per ton advance, provided, however, the operators submit the miners' demand of an additional 2 1-2 cents, eight hours and a semi-monthly pay day to arbitration.

The operators refused to concede to the miners' demand.

WARM WELCOME TO JUDGE PARKER

the half century border line, but there is nothing in his face or figure to suggest the fact by ten years. In the very prime of manhood, he retains the energy and even enthusiasm of youth as is told by each of the quick, active steps he takes in walking.

His bearing leans more to that of the careful student than that of a military man, but there is no getting away from the fact that he is the kind of a man to have on your side when the fighting begins.

The poise of his head is slightly forward, giving the suggestion of being a close listener or one who lives much among books, or both.

Strength and Determination.

His every facial characteristic denotes strength and determination in every feature. Broad of brow, his eyes are deep set and they may be of brown or they may not; one forgets just what color they are under his steady gaze that from the very first is careful scrutiny. But while they, too, suggest the thoughtfulness of the student, there is also a kindly light that speaks of a keen appreciation of humor, a clear understanding of human nature and charity if not indeed real sympathy for the weak and erring. His nose is prominent, not unpleasantly so, but rather after the kind of men that have been justly famous in history. A heavy moustache but partially conceals lips that evidently have not been tired with talking when there is nothing to say. But perhaps it is in his determined chin that lies the chief index to the character of Judge Parker, the man.

No room for doubt or hesitancy at this point. It is the chin of a man who believes himself to be in the right and not all the forces on earth can change. It's the kind of a chin that permits of no dillydallying for time, no dodging of the question in hand, no getting away from the essential point by means of wordy argument.

But all and every part of Judge Parker suggests one who deals directly with the specific in every question and on every occasion. The kind of a man that does not indulge in nor have any use for glittering generalities.

In repose, Judge Parker is a true type of the jurist in all of its highest and most ennobling attributes. In action he is rather the man of affairs, combining at one time those peculiar qualifications that mark both the statesman and the man of the business world.

In dress there is little that touches of the characteristic. In a suit of pepper and salt mixture little is left in the way of a distinguishing trait. There is no studied effort toward the conspicuous; rather there is evidently a care so far as dress goes to pass unnoticed among men.

A Many Sided Man.

Judge Parker is from his every appearance a many-sided man, but every side showing up strong and true above the ordinary level of careless humanity just as does old Kennesaw mountain when silhouetted against a clear sky to the north of Atlanta.

He is not the kind of man you would imagine leading a regiment with a cheer against the parapets of the enemy. He is rather the man whom you would expect to find quietly watching such a regiment carry out his preconceived plan, ready to take instant advantage of any mistake of the opposing forces or to meet any emergency that might come with the changing fortunes of battle.

He at all times appears to be rather the executive than the one to carry out the plans of another; the operator rather than the operative.

His method of speech is short, concise and always directly to the point. He does not waste words. Even in his conversation there is a something that savors of a careful, deliberate address to a jury where his every sentence means something and his every expressed thought counts for much.

When approached for an interview by the reporter in regard to things political, he pleasantly declined. Not having anything to say, he said nothing.

Nor did he come up from the depot on his first visit to this city in ten years with a column of impressions acquired during the trip for newspaper publication. He is not that kind of a man evidently. He was simply glad to come again to Atlanta and said so. And in a single sentence to this effect he summed up his address to the jury, figuratively speaking.

So far as the reporter's impressions go, Judge Parker is the furtherest removed from a demagogue, from a ranting, public-pleasing orator now on the political stage.

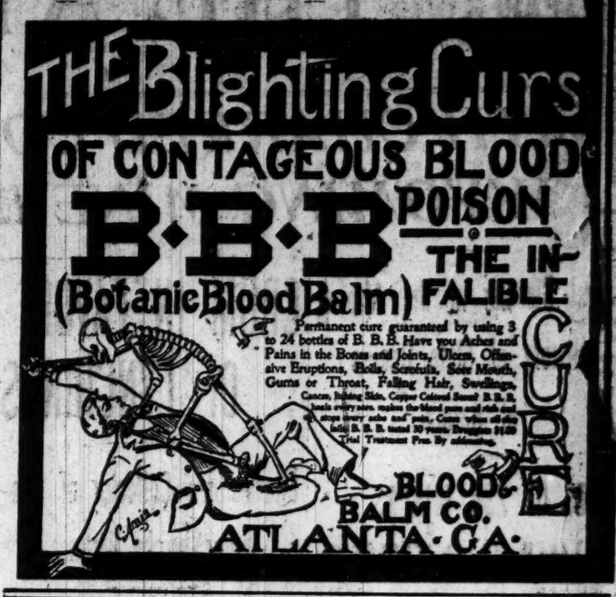

Rather he is one endowed by nature, by training and by thought with all of the qualifications necessary for "the man of the hour."

THEATERS.

The Casino.

Another large audience was pleased with the production at the Casino last evening. The performers easily maintained the excellent standard they set for themselves on Monday night and those who attended were not backward in expressing their appreciation.

The entertainment at the Casino this week is a minstrel performance. Although the troupe is not so large as some that have been seen in Atlanta the performers are equally as clever as any who have visited this city. Excellent and new songs well sung, dancing, jokes and the usual other features of minstrelsy constitute the performance which is well worth seeing.

Crime of Peculiar Atrocity Is Committed by Negro in Texas.

WHITE WOMAN ATTACKED AND IS CUT IN TWAIN

People of Two Texas Counties Are Aroused and Are Chasing Negro with Bloodhounds—Leaders Say They Will Burn Negro.

New Braunfels, Tex., June 30.—Many posses of armed men are tonight pursuing with bloodhounds a negro man who today attempted to assault and mortally wounded Mrs. Emil Gronle, wife of a farmer who lives 5 miles southeast of this point.

The negro appeared at the Gronle home just as Mrs. Gronle was preparing to join her husband in the cotton field. He demanded money, and before the woman could reply seized her and threw her to the floor. The negro was armed with a razor, with which he slashed his victim across the abdomen, almost severing her body. The dogs about the yard set up a barking and frightened the negro away.

Bloodhounds were secured from San Antonio and put on the trail of the negro. Mrs. Gronle is still alive, but not expected to survive the night. She was able to give a detailed description of her assailant.

The leaders of the posses are certain of capturing the negro, and the assertion is made that he will be burned to death.

SPECIAL TERM CALLED TO TRY MEMBERS OF MOB

GOVERNOR WILLIAM D. JELKS,
Who Has Ordered a Special Term of Court To Try Five Lynchers.

Five Men Recognized by Sheriff Austin Who Was Wounded by Mob That Lynched Andrew Dimms at Scottsboro.

Montgomery, Ala., June 30.—(Special.)—Governor Jelks today requested Judge J. A. Bilbro to call a special term of the circuit court to immediately try five members of the mob who lynched Andrew Dimms, a negro, and seriously shot Sheriff Austin in the attempt to get the negro at Scottsboro, Ala., last night.

These five men were recognized by the sheriff.

The governor today received word of the lynching and he immediately wired Judge Bilbro to call a special term of the court. It is said the governor intends to insist that the guilty parties be punished.

Under the law it will be thirty days before the court can be held, as notice will have to be given for that length of time.

Lynched Negro; Wounded Sheriff.

Scottsboro, Ala., June 30.—(Special.)—Andrew Dimms, a negro, was taken from the jail last night and hanged by a mob.

The negro was arrested Sunday for an attempt to criminally assault Miss Alma, the 19-year-old daughter of Dr. B. B. Smith, and the first that Sheriff Austin knew of the mob was when it put in an appearance in the hallway of the jail.

The sheriff seized two pistols and, mounting the stairs, said he would kill any one that attempted to come up. The threat was met with a volley and the sheriff emptied his revover in reply. Before he could reload he was shot down. One shot took effect in his right leg and the other in his pistol arm, thereby disabling him.

Drew Guns on Woman.

The daughter of the sheriff ran to her father and was at once covered by a pistol in the hands of a member of the mob and made to deliver the keys to the cell in which the negro was immured. The cell was quickly unlocked and the trembling negro was led out with a halter. He was marched to a place in the west end of town, where the other end of the rope was thrown across the arm of a telegraph pole and the negro was drawn up. The telephone wires were cut so as to prevent the calling for aid, and one of the masked men went across the square and summoned a doctor, who responded promptly and dressed the wounds of the sheriff.

Sheriff Austin had no intimation of the intended lynching and made no preparations to put on extra guards. The lynching was so quietly conducted that only a few people knew of the approach of the mob or the hanging until they went down town this morning.

The body was cut down and buried today and there is very little excitement.

The negro made a confession to the brother of the young lady and others who visited the jail after his capture.

UNITED STATES WILL NOT YIELD

Right-of-Way Across Panama Isthmus To Be Held.

Every Right Acquired Through Negotiations with Herran Will Be Maintained — No Answer Made to Charges of Colombian Consul.

Washington, June 30.—The state department is not disposed at present to take any notice of any the utterances attributed in the cable dispatches to the Colombian consul at London, ascribing invidious motives to the United States government in connection with the Panama canal project.

It is said at the department that while there would be precedent for complaining of the action of the Colombian officials located in the United States, it is not at all clear that a complaint could be lodged against a Colombian official in another country. The department also calls attention to the fact that the alleged utterances are unofficial which will serve to excuse it for any lack of action in this case. The statements alluded to have already found currency in the United States some of them, such as that the United States government is fomenting a revolution of the peninsular provinces of Colombia, have been explicitly denied.

Touching the broad statement that the United States government intends to maintain as much title to the right of way across the isthmus as it has already acquired through negotiations with Minister Herran, it is believed that this is quite correct though there will be no assertion on this point until the Colombian congress has acted on the pending treaty.

MILITARY WEEK FOR HILL CITY

Rome to Entertain Fifth Regiment and Seventh Cavalry Troop.

Rome, Ga., June 30.—(Special.)—Rome will be in the hands of the military men for the balance of this week and the city is in holiday attire for their coming.

At noon today a squadron of the famous Seventh cavalry, United States army, will reach Rome, where they will remain in camp for the balance of the week.

Rome has made the most elaborate preparations to receive and entertain them and their stay in the city will be one continuous round of social pleasure and enjoyment.

While here the cavalrymen will give daily exhibition drills at Hamilton park, where an immense arena has been prepared for their use. These exhibitions are expected to draw thousands of visitors to Rome during the next few days and the railroads and hotels have made extraordinary arrangements to handle the crowds.

The squadron, which is making a practice march from Chickamauga to Rome, will be met about three miles beyond the city by an escort composed of three local military companies and a committee of citizens. The entire parade will be reviewed by the mayor and council from the mayor's stand erected in honor of the occasion. The squadron will give daily parades and marches on Broad street, but the fancy drilling and rough riding will only take place at the park. The squadron will be accompanied by their crack regimental band.

The Fifth Regiment.

On July 4, at Lindale, will take place the great military parade and sham battle, upon which occasion both the Fifth regiment, Georgia troops, and the Seventh regiment, United States army, will be the guests of company E, Georgia troops.

Besides the military, over one thousand strong, there will be present upon this day some five hundred invited guests from abroad, including Governor Terrell and staff, Senators Bacon and Clay, the Georgia congressional delegation, many members of the legislature and others.

Provision has been made for not less than ten thousand spectators for the sham battle and a barbecue for two thousand has been arranged for the soldiers and their guests.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains the linen, it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it, or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, and a book that tells all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure to mention that you read this generous offer in the Atlanta Daily Constitution. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

PRISON SYSTEM NOT INVOLVED

Alleged Peonage Cases Brought Before General Assembly.

McRee Camp in Which Peonage Is Said to Have Occurred Is Not Under the Control of Georgia Prison Commission.

The charge that peonage, or something like it, has been practiced in Georgia was brought to the attention of members of the legislature yesterday.

On the desk of each member there was placed, by whom nobody seems to know, a reproduction in circular form of a publication which appeared recently in The Waycross Journal. This article has been widely copied and used as an exhibit in the current discussion of the peonage question in the northern press.

While there is no allegation to that effect, the impression made by this article is that it in some way involves the prison system of the state. As a matter of fact, neither the penitentiary system nor the misdemeanor system figures in this discussion in any degree. The McRees, against whom the charges are made, do not operate a misdemeanor camp nor handle convicts at all.

The Waycross Story.

The circular which was placed on the desks of members of the house tells of negro women being confined in the McRee camp without trial, and in one instance, being forced to marry a negro, in spite of the fact that she was already married:

Investigation at the office of the prison commission disclosed the fact that the so-called camps of the McRees are not convict camps at all, and that the commission has nothing whatsoever to do with them.

At one time the McRees worked the misdemeanor convicts for Lowndes county. Charges were filed against their camp and the investigation by the commission resulted in the breaking up of the camp. While the order made at the time was not for the removal of the convicts, the effect was the same. The county authorities were ordered to assume direct control. This they did and consequently took the convicts away from the McRee camp and since have worked them on the roads.

The records of the prison commission show that on February 23, 1901, an investigation was had of the charges made against the McRees, then operating a misdemeanor convict camp for Lowndes county. The record sets forth that the commission found that the camp had been properly organized and that for a time it had been operated in accordance with the law under the direct supervision of the county authorities. But after October, 1898, and up to the time of the investigation, the county authorities had permitted the lessees to handle the convicts entirely, having no officials at the camps and requiring no reports.

After going thoroughly into all the testimony, the commission reported that the convicts were in the main well fed and well clothed, and cared for in other respects humanely.

"If any convicts," the report goes on to say, "have been kept longer than the terms imposed upon them by the courts, it has not been satisfactorily proven."

Brought to Attention of Grand Jury.

In regard to the charges of kidnaping and other outrages alleged to have been committed under the color of the chaingang, the commission says:

"The evidence is very voluminous and conflicting. If true, it tends to connect parties not directly in charge of, or interested in, the chaingang, and therefore has no bearing upon the management thereof by the county authorities. For this reason no attempt has been made to reconcile the conflicting testimony or to pass upon these features of the case. Nevertheless, it is felt to be the duty of the governor and the prison commission to call these matters to the attention of the grand jury of Lowndes county, the solicitor general of that judicial circuit and other offiials who are charged with the enforcement of the law of the state, as it is believed that matters of such a serious nature, involving the violation of the criminal laws, the liberty of the citizens, and the good name of the state and of Lowndes county, should be investigated. The use of the record in this case is tendered these officials in making this investigation."

The order of the commission was that the county officials of Lowndes immediately, through their proper officers and guards, resume control of the convicts. If they failed to do this, the state warden would remove the convicts from Lowndes county and dispose of them in a manner to be thereafter determined.

The result was that the Lowndes county officials did immediately resume control of the convicts and shortly afterwards took them away from the McRee place, and since have worked them on the road.

No Anti-Peonage Law in Georgia.

One other thing disclosed by the investigation made yesterday is that there is no Georgia law against peonage.

The peonage law is a federal statute designed to make effective that "involuntary servitude" clause of the constitution. The only state law under which imprisonment offenses such as are here charged could be punished is the statute against false imprisonment, and that is made a misdemeanor. This explains why it is that prosecutions of this character of cases are in the federal rather than the state courts.

Most Popular in the World.

What is the most popular advertised medicine in the world? A few years ago it was supposed to be a brand of pills made in England claiming a sale of 6,000,000 packages a year. This record is badly beaten, however, today by the famous American family medicine, Cascarets, Candy Cathartic, which are selling at an average of over 30,000 boxes every day, over a million boxes a month, and over twelve million boxes a year. This appears to be evidence of overwhelming popularity, the most noteworthy on record.

ONE GREAT TRUST FORCED TO WALL

U. S. Shipbuilding Combine Declared Bankrupt.

Receiver for Trust Will Be Appointed by a New Jersey Judge—Directors Have Not Tried To Protect the Stockholders.

Newark, N. J., June 30.—Judge Kirkpatrick today announced to counsel representing complaining bondholders of the United States Shipbuilding Company that he had read all the papers in the case and had decided that the corporation is insolvent and that its directors had failed to take proper steps to protect the bondholders and seemed to be without ability to raise funds. Therefore, in the interest of the bondholders both those who appear here and complainants and all others, he said: "I shall appoint receivers. I will hear counsel as to whom they may desire to name."

Charles C. Deming, for the defendant corporation, asked if it was not possible to postpone consideration of the actual appointment until tomorrow at 2 'clock, but both Samuel Untermeyer and R. V. Lindabury objected. It was finally agreed that the order should be signed immediately and that counsel would take until tomorrow to agree on a suitable person for the appointment, but if no announcement is reached the court will name the receiver tomorrow at 10 o'clock.

In announcing his decision Judge Kirkpatrick said he had not had time to revise the opinion to be filed and consequently it would not be given but until later in the day, and possibly not until tomorrow.

Directors in Session.

New York, June 30.—The directors of the United States Shipbuilding Company met today, the stated object of the meeting being to act on the resignation of Predsient Nixon. For reasons not given out adjournment until tomorrow was taken without action. Mr. Nixon declined to discuss the receivership proceedings nor would he say anything regarding the meeting except that his resignation probably will be accepted tomorrow.

"I intend to remain a member of the board of directors," said Mr. Nixon.

George F. Sheldon, of the reorganization committee of the United States Shipbuilding Company, said:

"I don't see how the appointment of a receiver will interfere with our going ahead with our plan of reorganization."

PIECE OF MEAT CAUSES KILLING

Turner and Knight Quarrel Over Half Pound of Bacon, Knight Killed.

Louisville, Ala., June 30.—(Special.)—Edward Turner and Mannis Knight, two white men employed at Cunningham's saw mill 9 miles west of Louisville, disputed over a half pound of meat this afternoon. A quarrel ensued, when Knight advanced on Turner with an open knife. Turner walked away, but seeing he was being pursued, seized a scantling and, turning, quickly dealt Knight a blow that broke his skull and will result in death.

Turner gave himself up. Both men had worked harmoniously at the same place four years and each had families and lived in the same neighborhood.

estate men have all been report satisfactory progress lines. It is stated that the as been broken this year in ount of property purchased for which is regarded as a gratify- ndition. Large numbers of people purchased lots in all directions for purpose and hundreds of pretty and stantial homes have been erected l are now in course of construction.

This means material growth for the city and a trip out almost any of the street car lines will demonstrate this growth. The various suburbs are presenting a busy scene in the matter of building and the outskirts of the city are gradually reaching farther and farther in all directions.

Not only has the real estate business in the suburbs been marked during the present spring, but the transfers of property within the business and residential sections of the city have also reached a pronounced figure. Several big deals have been consummated, notably the railroad transactions in the vicinity of Washington and Hunter streets, which netted fully a quarter of a million dollars. The real estate market is rather quiet just at present, following the spring business, but it is expected that it will become lively again within a short time.

GO BROKEN IN BUILDING

Building Inspector Pittman Issued Many Permits in June.

Value of Buildings To Be Erected Under Permits Issued Last Month Is Greater by About $112,-000 Than Structures Built June, 1902.

The building record was broken last month. When the day and month closed for the city government yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock 338 permits had been issued by Building Inspector Pittman for structures that have an estimated aggregate value of $325,869.

During June, 1902, 215 permits were issued and the estimated value of the buildings erected under them was $212,276.

It is therefore apparent that there were twenty-three more permits issued during June of this year than during the same month of 1902, while the estimated value of the structures is about $112,000 more than the estimated value of buildings erected under permits issued during the corresponding month of last year.

The $100,000 is accounted for by the fact that the permit for the Peters street viaduct was issued yesterday. Except for this, however, all of the permits are for buildings of small value, the most expensive being the three-story brick tenement house which is to be erected at the corner of Harris and Ivy by J. O. Wynn, and which has an estimated value of $12,000. The permit for this structure was issued on June 11.

Twenty-six permits were issued yesterday to one man. He will erect an entire block of buildings. Each house has an estimated cost of $665. They will be located in the block bounded by Towns, Taylor, Fort and Bell streets. The permits were issued to F. C. Owens.

The building record for this year is considerably ahead of that of last year and Inspector Pittman is of the opinion that when the end of the year comes he will have figures to show that will evidence a decided growth in the city.

RUSSIA AND THE HEBREWS.

No Interference by United States Will Be Tolerated.

St. Petersburg, June 30.—The following semi-official statement was issued today:

"There have been no negotiations between Russian and the United States in regard to President Roosevelt's intention to forward to the Russian government a petition from the American Jews concerning the events at Kishinef, and no communication has been made to Russia by the United States government on this subject. But had such been received Russia would naturally have known what to reply to such an attempt at interference in her internal affairs."

The foregoing note was issued by the semi-official news agency.

TRAMMELL CASE BEFORE COURT

Conflicting Testimony Introduced in Preliminary Hearing at Montgomery.

Montgomery, Ala., June 30.—(Special.)—The preliminary hearing in the case of United States Deputy Marshal Byron Trammell, charged with the murder of Former United States Deputy Marshal C. E. Taylor, in this city, June 22, was begun before Justice Screws today, and after examining several witnesses court adjourned until tomorrow morning.

The evidence so far elicited in behalf of defendant tends to show threats by Taylor to take Trammell's life. The state alleged, however, that within an hour before the shooting, defendant and deceased were in a bar and billiard room together.

The state rested its case this afternoon, and testimony for the defense began and will be concluded tomorrow. Over fifty witnesses have been summoned. The case is being vigorously prosecuted.

One of the witnesses for the defense testified that Taylor said:

"Trammell, he is a coward. I looked for him in Roanoke for a week with a shotgun. I have him here in Montgomery now, and if I get a chance I'll make him wish he had never seen Montgomery."

AUGUSTA MAN NEAR TO DEATH

Oscar Bushard Seriously Wounded While Playing With Gun.

Charleston, S. C., June 30.—(Special.)—A young Georgian may lose his life in consequence of an unfortunate accident at the Isle of Palms late last night.

Young Oscar Bushard, of Augusta, lies at St. Francis Xavier infirmary here at the point of death wounded in the right wrist and in the abdomen by a single bullet from a pistol with which he and Henry Weisleger, of Augusta, were playing.

Both men are officials at the resort now leased and run by Bryan Lawrence, the Augusta hotel man. They were playing with a pistol when it was accidentally discharged.

At the infirmary this morning the ball was extracted from the stomach of Bushard, but physicians say he is in a very critical condition and it will be days before they can predict definitely what chance he has for recovery. Both men are well known in Augusta.

TOXAWAY COMPANY ATTACKED

Minority Stockholders Asked Appointment of Receiver.

Asheville, N. C., June 30.—C. W. R. Rademer and wife, E. H. Radker and G. T. Pryor, in behalf of themselves and all other stockholders and creditors of the Toxaway company, yesterday instituted proceedings against the Toxaway company and J. Frank Hays, praying that a temporary receiver be appointed for the Toxaway company until July 8, on which date the defendants should appear and show cause why a permanent receiver should not be appointed.

This complaint was filed on account of it having been alleged that the stockholders holding the controlling interest worked adversely to the interest of smaller shareholders.

The proceedings were stopped and receiver discharged when a certified check for the amount of the estimated damage was given complainants.

The Toxaway company owns a famous chain of hotels in the Sapphire country, including the Sapphire inn, the Lodge and Fairfield inn at Sapphire, and the Franklin at Brevard. In addition the company operates the railroad from Hendersonville to Toxaway, and also owns thousands of acres of land in the famous Sapphire country, the estate connected with the hotels consisting of 30,000 acres.

BIG BATCH OF DECISIONS

Alabama Supreme Court Decides Many Important Cases.

Montgomery, Ala., June 30.—(Special.)—The supreme court rendered a big batch of decisions this afternoon, some of them of more than ordinary interest.

The famous Higdon case was affirmed by the court, it holding that the governor has the right to suspend an officer, but not to vacate the office.

The case of J. M. Dennis, of this city, to have the Louisville and Nashville railroad remove the freight depot from across the foot of Lee street, was decided in favor of the railroad.

The Bessemer police commissioner bill is knocked out by the court on the ground that it is local legislation. This case is o fespecial interest in Montgomery, inasmuch as the Montgomery police commission is framed practically the same as the Bessemer bill.

OFFICERS GLAD TO LEAVE KIEL

Too Much Dressing Bored Officers of American Squadron.

Kiel, Prussia, June 30.—The United States squadron sailed at 6 p. m. today from Kiel, all the German ships saluting and the Americans replying. The squadron will arrive at Portsmouth, July 7. As each American ship passed along the line of German vessels the Germans cheered and their bands played "America." Admiral Prince Henry of Prussia, on the bridge of the German flag ship, stood at salute until the last ship had passed.

The American officers, though interested in the proceedings here every day of their stay, were glad to get away from the necessity of changing uniforms three or four times a day, and from long periods of duty. Rear Admiral Cotton and the captains of the American ships were also relieved to depart without any untoward incident having occurred. They, with Ambassadors Tower and Meyer, had been daily in contact with Emperor William and were impressed with his sincerity and earnestness. They all said that they felt he could have done nothing more to show his appreciation of the visit of the squadron to Kiel, or his desire to win American good will. The presence of the squadron, from the side of the German public, is regarded as a demonstration of friendliness.

Personally, the emperor's bearing was unaffected and even jovial. He has often spoken with singular openness.

superintendent is a new one and has been created by reason of the great increase in the postal business of the Atlanta office.

Mr. Nealy is promoted by the appointment from the postoffice collection force, of which he has been a popular member. He has been connected with the postoffice for several years and has made a good record and won many warm personal friends. The appointment goes into effect today, the beginning of the new fiscal year.

Mr. Nealy is one of the leading members of the local Letter Carriers' Association and evinces an active interest in all matters pertaining to the interest of the postoffice and its employees and the betterment of the service. He has been honored with the presidency of the association for two consecutive terms, represented it as one of the delegates at the convention of the National Letter Carriers' Association last year in Denver, and has been elected as a delegate to the national convention in Syracuse, N. Y., in August. He was actively interested in a movement that realized $1,000 for the Presbyterian hospital and was recently prominently identified with a movement by the letter carriers through which considerable local aid was secured for the Gainesville storm sufferers. The friends of Mr. Nealy are much gratified at his promotion.

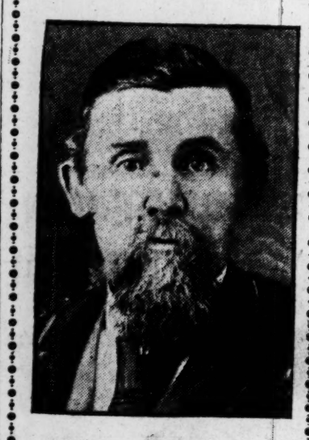

GRAND JURY INVESTIGATES.

Light Being Turned on Savannah Shooting Affray.

Savannah, Ga., June 30.—(Special.)—The grand jury met this afternoon to investigate the charges of assault with intent to murder under which J. T. Bennett is in jail and James L. Doss, Gad D. Bryan and Nat Evans, all of which are wounded, are held under bond.

Wit Ivey, the barkeeper, and the fourth man wounded in the shooting affray that occurred among gamblers in Gad D. Bryan's saloon on Bryan street early Monday morning, and Bennett appeared before the grand jury and they told the story of the fight. This was the Bryan-Bennett side of it, which indicated that Doss and Evans were the aggressors, and that they made an unprovoked attempt upon the life of Bryan.

The grand jury will continue its investigation of the case next Friday. Evans is still regarded as probably fatally wounded.

ALL QUIET IN RICHMOND.

No Disorder Resulted from Street Car Strike Yesterday.

Richmond, Va., June 30.—The street railway strike situation is absolutely quiet tonight. Cars have been run regularly on all city lines during the day and night, and no disturbance of any sort has been reported. Passenger travel on the cars is improving perceptibly, though at night the passengers are few. Merchants and others are moving to secure organized action against the boycott the strikers have placed on those who ride in the cars.

It is said that cars will be run through Manchester tomorrow, with heavy military guard, but this is not officially confirmed. Manchester has a large element of sympathizers with the strike. Many of the strikers live there. Trouble is anticipated if the attempt to run cars is made.

Mrs. Manning Sues Man She Says Called Her "Dead Beat."

The epithet "dead beat," according to a suit filed yesterda, has hurt the feelings of Mrs. McHenry Manning $10,000 worth.

J. Westfall, the same J. Westfall, who of old was in the employ of a butcher of the name of Parker, is the alleged offending one, he being charged in the suit with calling Mrs. Manning "a dead beat."

At the time Westfall is alleged to have done this he was at the shop of Butcher Parker, where steaks and chops and roasts were sold. A dispute, Mrs. Manning avers, arose over the whereabouts of certain money, which Westfall, she says, declared to be in the pockets or at least in the possession of Mrs. Manning's son, at the same time, it is alleged calling her a "dead beat."

This is the substance of the petition filed by C. B. Reynolds, her attorney, and on these statements she asks for $10,000 damages.

Church Floor Fell.

When Amanda Gartrell went to church on the evening of April 5, last, the church floor fell out—at any rate that is the statement made by her in a suit she filed yesterday.

The church was the North Atlanta Mission, corner of Alexander and Orme streets, H. C. Dennis being the pastor and lessee and Jasper N. Smith owner of the building, which was supported by wooden posts.

During the services on this eventful evening the floor, it is alleged, gave way, falling down a distance of fifteen feet and seriously injuring Amanda Gartrell. Now she asks $2,000 damages of Jasper N. Smith, the owner of the floor. C. B. Reynolds is her attorney.

Atlantic and Birmingham Takes Over Two New Lines.

Waycross, Ga., June 30.—(Special.)—Atlantic and Birmingham officials tonight announced the purchase of the Tifton and Northeastern and the Tifton, Thomasville and Gulf railroad.

FOUND CHILD IN NEGRO HOME

Knoxville Man Charges Kidnapping of Two-Year-Old Daughter.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 30.—(Special.) Habeas corpus proceedings were begun today in the circuit court by J. T. Sunderland against Mrs. Steele, the manager of the Steele Colored Orphans' home, of this city, used exclusively for negroes, for Lillian, the 2-year-old child of the petitioner. The petition alleges that the child was kidnapped from its home in Knoxville in May and was, by some person, brought to the home for negro children.

Mrs. Steele, in a statement, says that she was asked by prominent white people, including County Judge Collier, of Knoxville, to care for the child, and that she has been doing so.

The author of the article on sunstroke—or more correctly, heat stroke—in Tropical Medicine, says that in the preventive treatment of heat stroke, the head and spinal cord must be properly protected, the dress must be loose around the neck, chest and abdomen. As curative measures, the patient should be moved into the shade, if possible, his clothes loosened and cold water poured on the head and neck, and frequently repeated. Ammonia should also be applied to the nostrils, a turpentine enema administered and a large mustard poultice applied to the chest. The author states that ice should not be applied to the head when the pulse is feeble and the skin cold. Chloroform is indicated if convulsions occur, administering only a few whiffs.

The picnickers will meet this morning at 9 o'clock at the corner of Broad and Marietta streets and proceed from there to the park in special cars. About noon baskets of dinner will be distributed to the children and they will be given an opportunity to enjoy a feast of good things. The members of the army have worked energetically to render the outing a great success.

METCALFE CASE IS CLOSED.

Washington, June 30.—The postal investigation lacked important developments today. Postmaster General Payne said today that he believed the inspectors are inspecting the arrangement with the General Manifolding Company, of Franklin, Pa., for the purchase of registry books.

Mr. Payne said that the case of former Superintendent Metcalfe, of the money order system, who appealed for reinstatement, is closed for the present at least.

WORK BEGUN AT GAINESVILLE.

Cotton Mill Damaged by Storm To Be Reconstructed.

Gainesville, Ga., June 30.—(Special.)—D... C. Hawley, head man for G. H. Cutting ... Co., mill contractors of Worcester, Mass., and who are large stockholders in the Gainesville cotton mills, this morning commenced the work of reconstructing the plant which was so badly damaged by the tornado June 1. It will take several months to put the mill building in shape again, but so soon as this is done the work of installing the machinery will be commenced. Several shipments of the machinery have already been made.

The entire two top floors of the mill will have to be rebuilt, and some of the walls will have to extend down to the third floor. The mill will be built back in substantial manner and will be as good if not better, than it was before being struck by the storm.

Tampered with Switches.

Athens, Ga., June 30.—(Special.)—This morning at 9 o'clock on account of a switch that had been tampered with one mile this side of Luke, Ga., on the northeastern branch of the Southern railroad, a freight engine was turned over. The engineer, Bob Blackman, being slightly bruised, and the fireman, ... having his left arm broken and his thigh badly hurt.

Chief Justice Simmons.

It seems almost certain that there will be no opposition offered to the re-election of Chief Justice Thomas J. Simmons to the supreme court bench. His laborious services in that court, his unquestioned judicial abilities and the popular esteem in which he is held are deterrents against any one opposing an ambition for the place against the manifold claims of Judge Simmons to continue in the position he has so admirably adorned.

Apart from the high public reasons for keeping the supreme court above political contests and preserving its continuity of thought and judgments, Judge Simmons deserves the graceful tribute of this promised unanimous re-election because of the patriotism with which he has passed by more tempting labors in order to serve the people faithfully in the exalted and important office of chief justice of the state.

The Canal Campaign.

The presence in Colombia of agents of the transcontinental railway lines of the United States has been well advertised. They are there with unlimited money credit, with shrewdly-given instructions and are undoubtedly exerting all the power that legal wisdom, railroad cash and Colombian congressional cupidity gives them to defeat the ratification of the Panama canal treaty.

The rather wild statement by the Colombia consul in London that agents of the American government are planning a coup d'etat in Panama, an uprising of the people of that province, and the intervention of the United States to assure them independence, is silly, in view of other known facts. Among the contradictions of its tenor is the fact that General Reyes has been induced, by what arguments and how many pennyweights of them, to oppose the treaty. If he finds that he cannot defeat it, he will, before its ratification, inaugurate a revolution and the constitution of Colombia forbids the making of a binding treaty while the country is in revolution over the possession of its government. It is to help along this condition and so make action on the treaty impossible that the American railway agents are busy. The putting forth of this London pipe-dream looks very much like a part of their scheme. It is calculated, if credited, to inspire apprehension in European chancelleries and to enrage the Colombians over a promised seizure, vi et armis, of a portion of their territory. And the plausibility of it is cleverly put by reference to our operations with Hawaii, Spain and the islands we took from her.

This canal business is getting to be somewhat of a scandal as to the way of its management. The time is almost ripe for a "yes" or "no" ultimatum to Colombia. If she answers "no," or answers nothing, then this government should promptly turn to the Nicaragua route and see what can be done and quickly done there.

Take in the "Danger" Sign.

A great amount of twaddle is spoken and ridiculous stuff written about the "smart set," its extravagances, luxuries and license. The people who roost on the curb and jeer at the people who are riding in the gilded equipages of wealth, scattering time and money like chaff to the winds and dancing or drinking their internal economics out of order are in a class of idle thinkers scarcely a degree below the mental levels of those they criticise.

Extravagance is nothing more than a mode of transferring wealth from a temporary trustee to a mass of cestuis qui trust who are daily biting off from the golden mass. Luxury is a law of elimination and they who are indulging in its flood tides will soon be flotsam on the ebb tide and their posterity will be fishermen's helpers along the shore. So far as their license is asserted that affects the personnel according to the individual proneness and can no more be cured by criticism than diabolism in general has been cured by the Ten Commandments.

There need be no fear in any sensible circle that our smart sets are going to drag this nation to the demnition bow-wows. The people who make and use rationally the prosperities of labor, farming and financing are too busy to knock off for more than a day now and then to go the giddy pace of the flippant four hundreds.

The leaven of steadfastness in industry and Americanism in conduct is yet stronger in the masses of the people than all the allurements "to eat, drink and be merry" and tomorrow die of paresis, appendicitis or the jim-jams. Education, home-building, business in its myriad strengthening forms and politics that make for a larger and happier democracy are going right on daily and the smart sets have to build private roads to run their races on lest they be run down by the mogul mass of the common people of every day and the ever glorious Fourth of July sorts!

The Critics of the Tech.

The Tech seems to have fallen upon the fate of that accomplished bigamist who married an old wife and a new wife. The latter determined to rid him of his gray hairs and the former was equally bent on taking out his natural black hairs, with the result that he was soon as dehirsuted as a billiard ball or a Bermuda onion.

The esteemed Macon Telegraph rises to justify its purpose in criticising the rigidness of the rules of discipline in the Tech and insists that they are too nearly akin to the Procrustean procedures of West Point. It prefers the manly honor system, instead, and repeats that many students voluntarily give up the Tech's advantages because they and their parents object to the hard rules of conduct and routine imposed in the institution.

The arraignment of the Tech by Dr. Broughton was on the extreme other side. He charged laxity, disciplinary demoralization, venal sins by faculty and students and intimated that grace is as scarce in Hades as moral character in the Tech. Of course, the knowledge and sentiments of a just public revolted at and resented these grossly outrageous characterizations of the institution. Its fame has been almost flawless and it is inconceivable that it should have flourished and grown to its present importance in the affections of the people if parents have for fifteen years been sending to it moral sons and receiving back worthless vagabonds and sots.

Dr. Broughton has assumed a responsibility he cannot avoid. He has pilloried the Tech from the pulpit and published to the world charges of evil conduct that cannot be lightly effaced by sweeping iterations or a discreet silence. Having gone to war, he is supposed to have counted the cost and justice to the Tech demands that he should make good his charges to their uttermost extent, or retract like a man what he cannot sustain. The people who stand for the life and usefulness of the Tech are not to be trifled with by wanton sensationalism.

It is rather a tribute to the administration of the Tech that one critic finds its discipline too loose and another condemns at as too stringent. Perhaps the truth is in the middle fact that the discipline enforced there is of the sort that will require a right application of time and opportunities to the end that the students may not disappoint themselves or the state.

The Tech is too necessary and now too valuable to Georgia and the south to be delivered over to the mercies of volunteer reformers. It has its overseers, who are men possessing the public confidence. The criticism of The Macon Telegrah may be just enough to warrant calm consideration and an adjustment of some burdensome regulations. Its criticism is that of a friend, but the action of Dr. Broughton was a stab such as might have been expected only from an open and virulent enemy.

Nevertheless the Tech will live, and be supported cordially and bless many generations yet to come.

In Uncle Joe Cannon's Town.

It will not be long until Uncle Joe Cannon will be elected to preside over the house of representatives of the national congress. He is an emigrant from North Carolina who in all his years in the west has not been able to outgrow many tar-heel traits and especially his love of boiled corn on the cob.

When he becomes speaker of the house he is more than likely to be confronted with a flood of petitions and some vociferous members from northern districts where negro votes are a valuable circulating medium, asking for legislation of a drastic sort against lynching. The premonitions of this we see already in the resolutions adopted by conventions of negro editors and other bodies in northern cities.

Uncle Joe can be trusted to know that relief from the lynching devilt ries cannot be given by congress. Past endeavors to regulate the local police affairs of the states have not been profitable and obtained the condemnation of President Grant, President Hayes and other high authorities in both great parties in congress. If The New York Herald is right in ascribing the lynching fever to a microbe then that microbe has existed in the world since the day that Cain slew Abel and its treatment must, to be effectual, be local and individual. If the law of the vicinage will be despised and overridden by the mob, how much less will the law of the congress be laughed at and ignored by those who raise and ride these whirlwinds of passion that end in lynching!

Uncle Joe's own town has a record in the lynching line, for two negroes were lynched in Danville in 1895 under the wildest circumstances. Not even the commanding influence of Uncle Joe in the city where he is worshiped could save the brutes. Four lynchings have happened in Illinois since February, 1902, and The St. Louis Globe-Democrat, a red-hot republican paper, says of them, in connection with the late Belleville affair:

The enforcement of the law against lynchers then, as now, was lax, the people apparently looking upon the lynching as justifiable and often expressing sympathy with it because of laxity in the prosecuting officials, who permit murderers to go free or let months pass until public sentiment no longer is exerted against them to insure their conviction.

With all these things in hi memory we think Uncle Joe will be very slow to encourage any ill-advised and unconstitutional legislation on the lynching subject. He understands that it is not a sectional symptom, but the rige which is as liable to take possession of people in New Jersey as in Georgia, in Illinois as in Mississippi, when the most atrocious crimes are committed and the public mind cannot repose in confidence that their courts will render speedy and certain justice.

Lynchings are countermarches of civilization, but if the people whose lives, property, sanctities of home and safety of womankind will not be sensible enough and self-sacrificing enough to maintain honest courts and quick machinery for criminal extirpations, then General Wistar of Delaware says truly that "the people will in awful emergencies seek other protection and find it by the shortest cut."

Mark Our Historic Spots.

Some of these days the citizens of Atlanta will be sorry without any way to remedy their grief. Like Esau, they will seek a place of repentance with tears and find none, and all because they are permitting valuable plots of land in the centers of the city that would make valuable, life-giving breathing spots for the people to be built up for residence and business purposes.

Already a number of small spaces that were admirably adapted for handsome parking have been built over and thereby historical spots have been obliterated. Atlanta is municipally the poorer because of these effacements. Few persons are now alive in Atlanta who can tell a stranger where the first house was built in the town, or the first church, or the old springs that were the scenes of many early festival occasions, where the first shell from Sherman's batteries struck in the city, and a number of other incidents that in other cities are marked by parks, or open squares, or monuments, or tablets with appropriate inscriptions.

Savannah has just placed memorial tablets to commemorate places in that city hallowed by the services of John Wesley in the new colony of Georgia. Our park commissioners have a good field to exploit here in Atlanta and we are sure the patriotism of the people will respond to their recommendations for interior parks and other memorial works.

TALKS ABOUT ATLANTA.

Brunswick Journal: Atlanta did not lose on Saturday. It rained at the close of the first inning.

Augusta Herald: The amount of free advertising that Atlanta gets is enough to dirve the average advertiser crazy.

Savannah Press: The Atlanta electric companies say they haven't swallowed one another. They were just "getting together."

Wiregrass Blade: Atlanta's city council will tackle the ice trust of that city. They will probably come to the conclusion that it is a hot proposition.

Greenesboro Herald: We don't need Atlanta "spirits." We have plenty of our own.—Advocate Democrat. You might pass it around, Brother Williams.

Albany Herald: Atlanta ought to handle Dr. Broughton as a public nuisance and perpetual menace to the public peace. He should not be permitted to run at large without a muzzle.

Sparks Enterprise: Where does the "Atlanta end" to that Belgrade affair come in?

A Story of Phil Cook.

(From The San Antonio Express.)

General "Phil" Cook, late secretary of state of Georgia, was noted for his quick and stinging wit, as well as for a certain eloquence of harmless profanity. When he was a representative in congress there were many contests over seats. One day a particularly shameless case was to be decided, and General Cobk felt so outraged by the open rascality of both contestants that he did not want to take part in seating either. But he finally consented to vote for the democrat, on the ground that, as one of the contestants must get the seat, it would be better for the democrats to put in their man. When the time came for the roll call, however, the old general had turned from the nauseating details and was busy reading. Suddenly the clerk called: "Cook of Georgia!"

The old general dropped his book and rose in a dazed and bewildered manner. Then he remembered the sacrifice that was expected of him, but he had forgotten the name of the democratic contestant.

The clerk again called: "Cook of Georgia!"

Turning to one of his democratic colleagues, the general inquired in a whisper that could be heard in every corner of the hall:

"John, which is our d—d rascal?"

Gaynor Said To Be Dying.

(From a Syracuse (N. Y.) Dispatch.)

"John F. Gaynor," said a Syracusan, who has just seen him in Quebec, "is the most miserable man in that city. I think he has locomotor ataxia, and he does not look as if he could live a year. He goes stumbling along in Dufferin terrace, leaning upon a cane. He has aged perceptibly. He has a man constantly watching him as he goes along the terrace for fear of being kidnapped again. He does not dare to take a ride on the street cars for the same reason. "He is thoroughly homesick and wants to come back, but does not dare to. This talk of compromise with United States authorities is idle. He has broken with Captain Greene and has but few friends. He has no business, because he is not able to do anything."

Gaynor and Greene have been exiles in Quebec for over a year, having fled to escape charges of fraud on indictments growing out of the Cantor scandal.

Judge Alton B. Parker.

(From The Waco Times-Herald.)

Judge Logan E. Bleckley, of Georgia, is to deliver the annual address at the meeting of the Texas Bar Association in San Antonio the second week in July. Judge Bleckley is eccentric in looks and manner, but he is great in law, in literature, in natural science, and in making love. A somewhat unique compliment to the attainments of the venerable judge was paid by the supreme court of his state a year or so ago, when, finding themselves confronted by legal question of more than usual difficulty and interest, they invited the ex-chief justice to sit with them at the hearing, and adopted as their own the opinion written by him at their request.

Advice to the Legislatures.

Thomaston Times: Gentlemen of the legislature, vote for the bill to establish a state board of health.

Thomaston Times: The legislature should do something at the coming session to regulate the farm labor question.

Greenesboro Herald: The legislature will need the entire fifty days and more, too, to satisfactorily settle all the important questions now awaiting its consideration.

Eatonton Messenger: The legislature should quickly make the confederate veteran eligible to the office of adjutant general in Georgia. Wipe out the discrimination against him.

ROUND ABOUT TOWN.

Finest in the World.

Not many of our citizens know that the Georgia School of Technology in this city owns and operates the best textile teaching plant in the world. No other school in America or Europe has an equipment to compare with it. As it stands today, with all its modern equipment, it is worth $100,000 and needs only a print plant to make it as perfect as modern machinery can make a school or practical plant.

In this school students are taught all the processes of preparing, spinning, dying and weaving, from the simplest goods to mercerized cotton portieres, to design the patterns, adjust the looms and bobbins and calculate the cost of production. The graudates of this department are in constant demand for new factories. Some of them are engaged at high salaries as cotton factory inspectors for insurance companies. Recently one of the members of the school was called to the superintendency of a new textile school at New Bedford, Mass.

These details, so scantily given, are yet snapshots sufficient to give the school a high place in the regard of our own fellow-citizens and to yield it a support that will make it as perfect in every other department as in that of textile operations.

A Career Well Begun.

Some one remarked to me that Judge Walter L. Venable is making a capital justice of the peace and giving to his court the dignity and confidence that is often lacking in the minor judicatures.

Why shouldn't Walter make one of the best judges ever? After his school days he went into the office of clerk of the superior court, once filled by his respected father and afterwards by his brother, and under many adminstrations learned every detail of the practice of the superior courts and incidents of the justice's courts.

For many years he was the deputy clerk under the noses of the judges and court conduct is as familiar to him as the palm of his hand. Judge Walter Venable sounds right and his friends made no mistake in putting him in a position where he can so ably serve justice and the best interests of rich and poor alike.

A Book That Is Needed.

If Hon. T. K. Oglesby would only recast his remarkable and invaluable book, "Some Truths of History," into a textual and catechetical form, calling it "The South in History," he would supply a text book that I believe would be promptly adopted in every one of the southern state school systems. Thereby he would do a yet more definite and lasting patriotic work and perpetuate his name while the south is a part of human history.

The book as it stands is of great value to those who would know the truth of what southern men and women have done to make American history, but it is not in shape to be used by the children in the schools. That is the desideratum and Mr. Oglesby cannot do a better thing for future generations in the south than to fall in with this suggestion—in my opinion!

The Way of General Wood.

The New York Sun says if General Leonard Wood really used his personal funds to support the proper dignities of his office as military governor of Cuba, the United States should reimburse him But The Sun's suggestion is sarcasm.

General Wood has a way of his own in matters personal. While stationed here at Forst McPherson some years ago, and then only a lieutenant surgeon, a negro killed maliciously the pet dog of his wife. Lieutenant Wood employed Reuben Arnold, the junior, to prosecute the killer, which Mr. Arnold did with sucess. When the case was finished Lieutenant Wood asked Mr. Arnold as to his fee. The latter thought it well to be stiff enough in the matter and suggested $25.

"Pooh-pooh!" said Wood. "Never, for the way you went for that coon and cinched him for the chaingang!"

And thereupon he sat down and filled out his check for $75 and handed it to the astonished young attorney.

So if Wood spent his own money in Cuba he is not the sort of man to ask for any reimbursement.

It Wasn't in the Nawth.

It was yesterday and at the corner of North Pryor street and Auburn avenue—a negro painter on his ladder decorating the front of the house with neatly lettered signs telling of the business domiciled inside. Why, a sight like that in Boston would cause the Brahmins of that burg to throw fits like electric eels! Nowhere, from the Penobscot to Mt. Hood, north of Mason and Dixon's line have I ever seen a negro doing business as a professional sign-painter—not on your like—or, rather, not on his life!

Kept on Climbing Up.

When you are about the Piedmont hotel, the pride of Atlanta and the despair of other southern towns, you will hardly fail to see Colonel George W. Parrott, its managing half-owner, keeping his eye on the mechanism of the caravansery. I first knew him when I was a 10-year-old, bumptious kid and he was chief railway clerk in Knoxville, Tenn. After the "rukus" was over in '65 I met him again here in Atlanta. He was trying to catch up with the bullion band wagon to collar a competency. He chased it in Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, and perhaps sundry other states, but finally settled down here in Atlanta and began to coin "the stuff" right out of the real estate, red clay banks and real money banks of this goodly city. He succeeded, because he always intended to do so and attended strictly to his job. George is now on Easy street, sunny side, head of the block and pile velvet all the way from the curbstone to the hall door!

LAWLESS ELEMENT FEAR HIM.

Citizens Want General Murray To Remain at Jackson.

Jackson, Ky., June 30.—A telegram signed by numerous business men and officials was tonight sent to Governor Beckham requesting him to urge General Murray to remain in Jackson for the present. Respect for the troops has increased since General Murray has been here, and as a result of his order the lawless element stand in awe of him and better order has characterized his stay.

General Murray knows nothing of the request and has made arrangements to leave in the morning. The names attached to the petition represent elements that have heretofore been at variance.

YANGER AND HANLON DRAW.

For Twenty Rounds They Fought Like Demons.

San Francisco, June 30.—The Hanlon-Yanger fight at the Mechanic pavilion tonight ended in a draw at the end of the twentieth round, referee Ed Smith being unable to choose a winner between the game light featherweights. The fight was one of the fiercest ever seen in this city. Both men fought with a vim.

From the first to the ninth round Yanger had slightly the better of the contest. In the ninth round the tide turned in favor of the Californian.

In the eleventh and twelfth rounds Hanlon's lead was decisive, but in the thirteenth Yanger recuperated and at one time seemed to have Hanlon at his mercy, but the local lad was too clever and by good generalship stalled off what appeared to be a victory for the Chicago boy. From the fourteenth to the twentieth rounds inclusive, Hanlon had the better of the fight.

STATE GOSSIP CAUGHT IN CAPITOL CORRIDORS

HON. "HUB" FRANKLIN,
Of Washington, Known as the "Apollo of the House."

DR. T. J. M. KELLY,
Of Glascock, Whose Hopes Are Centered About His Australian Ballot Bill.

WILL Georgia have an exhibit at the Louisiana Purchase exposition?

The question is now up to the legislature for answer. Mr. Dunbar, of Richmond, one of the youngest and most progressive members of the house, introduced a joint resolution yesterday providing for an appropriation of $50,000 to be expended under the direction of the governor and the commissioner of agriculture for the purpose of making a display of Georgia's agricultural and kindred resources at the St. Louis exposition next year.

"I have received some very encouraging assurances with regard to this appropriation," Mr. Dunbar said, "and I believe there is good prospects of the passage of the resolution.

"The members are beginning to realize the great importance to Georgia of having a first-class display at this exposition, which will be the greatest show of modern times. Georgia cannot afford to be left in the background.

"We have far better warrant for making this appropriation than for several others which have been made by the legislature, and for myself I am satisfied there is no law whatever in the way of it."

The resolution went to the general appropriations committee and will doubtless receive early consideration.

Believes His Bill Will Pass.

Dr. T. J. M. Kelly, of Glascock, is wearing a pleasant smile of hope these days, for he feels satisfied of favorable action by the senate on his Australian ballot bill, which has passed the house by a good majority.

Dr. Kelly has made a poll of the senate, and every time he takes the figures out of his pocket to glance at them a smile spreads across his countenance that looks like ready victory.

"I believe it is going through," said Dr. Kelly, "though I am aware of some little opposition to it on account of the supposition that it will affect the primary elections. But there is no ground for fear on that score. The bill absolutely does not take the management of the primaries out of the hands of the executive committee, and in that respect will not change their present status."

The success of this Australian ballot bill has been Dr. Kelly's great ambition. He says he is willing to retire from the legislature when his bill finds its place upon the statute books.

Had No Opposition.

When the bill to provide a means for requiring railroad companies to furnish transportation facilities for freight more promptly, of which Hon. E. T. Steed, of Carroll, is the author and champion, came up in the house yesterday, Mr. Steed thought it was incumbent upon him to make an argument in its favor.

Mr. Steed secured the attention of the chair immediately the bill had been read, and entered into one of the warmest sort of arguments in favor of his bill. His eloquence was at its highest pitch, the hall of the house resounding with reasons why the measure should become a law, when—

Mr. Mulherin, of Richmond arose calmly and addressed the chair.

"Does the gentleman know of any opposition to his bill?" Mr. Mulherin asked.

"In fact, I think we are all in favor of it."

The smile was on Mr. Steed.

The gentleman from Carroll made a brief reconnasance, but could find no opposition.

"On the passage of the bill the ayes are 125 and the nays are 0," announced the speaker, and the gentleman from Carroll stood up for five minutes receiving the congratulations of his colleagues.

Can't Wear His Overcoat.

There's only one reason why Dr. Shannon, of Monroe, objects to summer sessions. The doctor has an overcoat which is the pride of his life, a long fur garment that shuts the March winds out of his ears on the one hand and almost keeps his feet warm on the other.

This overcoat is also a subject of admiration by the doctor's many friends. But in the summer time there is no chance for it to do any business. Probably it is now quietly reposing in moth balls waiting for the wintry weather and a midnight call. There is nothing doing in the overcoat line this warm July, nevertheless the doctor still greets his friends with that perennial smile that won't come off.

To Make Money for the State.

Mr. Whitley, of Douglas, has revived a plan which received some slight consideration at the last session of the legislature with the object in view of enriching to some extent the coffers of the state.

Mr. Whitley introduced a resolution providing for a committee to investigate and report upon a plan to lease the property belonging to the Western and Atlantic, or state road, which is adjacent to the Whitehall street viaduct; the Broad street and Forsyth street bridges. His idea is to see if this ground, or rather the space above the railroad tracks, cannot be leased for a long period for the purpose of constructing buildings fronting on the viaduct and bridges. Only the foundations would reach to the ground, and it is thought these could be put in without interfering materially with the railroad traffic.

The resolution contemplates inquiry into the feasibility of the plan and consultation upon that point with the lessees of the state road.

This plan was suggested two years ago by Hon. Seaborn Wright, of Floyd, who introduced a similar resolution, but no action upon it was ever taken.

The committee on ways and means, to which Mr. Whitley's resolution was referred, had it under consideration yesterday afternoon and reported it back with the recommendation that it be passed.

Wants Two Sessions.

The committee on rules will probably report today on the resolution by Mr. Morton, of Jones, providing for two sessions of the house daily. Mr. Morton wants the house to meet at 9 o'clock and adjourn at 12 noon. Then he proposes to meet again at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and remain in session until 5.

"Don't you know you are working for the state now?" some one suggested to Mr. Morton when his resolution was introduced.

TWO WHITE MEN BREAK INTO JAIL

South Carolina Men Anxious to Serve Time Due State.

Columbia, S. C., June 30.—(Special.)—In two days, two white men have delivered themselves at the penitentiary, wishing to serve sentences for man-slaying. They were out on bond, when their appeals were refused.

H. G. Box, of Tillman, Hampton county, had difficulty in getting in, but was finally allowed to enter pending the arrival of papers from Hampton. He was postmaster at Tillman and objected to J. C. McCreery, a railroad contractor, formerly of Macon, shooting a pistol at a mark on Sunday. They quarreled and a couple of Sundays afterwards met in the aisle of the church, and Box, who is a cripple, fired the fatal shot. He is to serve seven years.

Pinkney W. Hutto, of Orangeburg, had less difficulty getting by the guards at the penitentiary door, having taken the trouble to bring commitment papers with him.

Hutto is only to serve three years. He killed a young brother, whom he had got out of many scrapes. There was an element of self-defense. He was a prosperous farmer.

CONVICTED OF PEONAGE.

Two Alabama Farmers To Serve in Atlanta Federal Prison.

Montgomery, Ala., June 30.—In the United States court this afternoon George D. Cosby and Barancas F. Cosby, farmers of Tallapoosa county, pleaded guilty to the charge of peonage and were sentenced to serve one year and a day in the Atlanta penitentiary.

PARTY SPLITS OVER TARIFF

Tariff Reformers and Stand Patters Disagree in Iowa.

Des Moines, Iowa, June 30.—Predictions made today were that the republican state committee which will convene here at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning will be the shortest ever held in the state. It is expected the convention will adjourn at 4 o'clock tomorrow evening. A full ticket will be nominated. The platform has evidently been agreed upon as regards the tariff. It is known that the words that were most objectionable in the platform to the stand-patters will be omitted. The only contest on the ticket will be on state superintendent of public instruction, for which there are three candidates. The incumbent, Mr. Barrett, aspires to a fourth term and the opposition to him is on the fourth term principle.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, who is a delegate, arrived this morning. Secretary Shaw and former Speaker Henderson will not be present.

This afternoon there are rumors to the effect that the agreement between the tariff reformers and the stand-patters had been called off and that Governor A. B. Cummins, being dissatisfied with the reading of the tariff plank, would make an effort to control the committee on resolutions. However, the plank has been shown to most of the leaders of both factions and while it is not eminently satisfactory to the Cummins forces, it is believed that it will go through without further scratching.

Missionaries Gather at Lookout.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 30.—(Special.) The opening session of the Interdenominational Conference of Missionary and Young People's Workers will be held at Lookout Inn tomorrow. Assurances have already been received that over one hundred and fifty delegates from all parts of the south and east will be present and a large number have begun to arrive.

SKIRMISH HAD ON CHILD LABOR

Resolution To Investigate It Comes Up Today.

Bill Passed To Secure More Prompt Transportation of Freight—House Will Adjourn for Fourth of July—No More "Dies Non."

There was a preliminary skirmish in the house yesterday on the subject of child labor. It was started by a resolution by Mr. Fields, of Dooly, looking to the investigation by legislative committee of conditions in the cotton mills of the state, but under the rules it went over until today. The house passed the bill by Messrs. Steed and Hixon, of Carroll, extending the powers of the railroad commission so as to give it authority to adopt reasonable rules requiring the prompt receipt and transportation of freight. There was no opposition to the measure.

The house decided to adjourn for the Fourth of July, but refused to declare the day a "dies non."

At the conclusion of the session a bill by Mr. Fussell, of Chattahoochee, providing for an amendment to the law relating to the proportion of expense falling on counties connected by bridges or ferries, was under debate, and that will come up the first thing this morning. Mr. Fussell desires to change the law so as to make each county bear a proportion of the expense in accordance with the taxable values in such county.

Wants Prompt Transportation.

The house agreed thoroughly and unanimously with Messrs. Steed and Hixon, of Carroll, relative to their bill extending the powers of the railroad commission so as to provide for more prompt transportation of freight, and passed that measure by a vote of 125 to 0.

Mr. Steed explained in advocating the measure that it was too often impossible to get the railroads to furnish promptly cars for the transportation of cotton, produce and other freight, the result being that shippers often lost heavily through the delay. The only object of the measure, he said, was to permit the railroad commission to make reasonable rules requiring railroad companies promptly to receive, receipt for and transport freight tendered them.

The first section of Mr. Steed's bill as passed provides that "the railroad commission of this state shall be invested with full power and authority to make, prescribe and enforce all such reasonable rules, regulations and orders as may be necessary in order to compel and require the several railroad companies of this state to promptly receive, receipt for and forward to destination all freights of every character which may be tendered to them for transportation; and as well such reasonable rules, regulations and orders as may be necessary to compel and require the several railroad companies of this state promptly to tender to and deliver to the consignee upon arrival, any such freights as may be transported to destination."

Section 2 provides that "this act shall not extend to interstate commerce."

Section 3 fixes the penalty, providing "that for the violation of any such rule, order or regulation so established by said commission, the railroad company so offending shall incur a penalty in the sum of not exceeding one thousand $(1,000) dollars, to be fixed by the jury after suit is brought therefor under the provisions of existing laws regulating the institution and prosecution of suits for penalties incurred by railroad companies in consequence of violations of the rules and regulations prescribed by said commission."

To Investigate Child Labor.

Following the address of Major J. F. Hanson against child labor legislation on Monday night, an effort was made in the house yesterday to take the matter up at once on a resolution to appoint a joint committee from the house and senate to investigate conditions in the cotton factories of the state.

The resolution was introduced by Mr. Fields, of Dooly, and called for a report from the proposed committee within fifteen days from the time of appointment.

Mr. Hall, of Bibb, and others, opposed the resolution, which was introduced as privileged, on the ground that it would cause too great delay in getting up the child labor bill for action, and also that it would put the mill men on notice and enable them to prepare for the visit of the committee.

"I want to see this bill passed, and with the least possible delay," said Mr. Hall, with emphasis.

This statement was greeted with applause from all parts of the house.

Speaker Morris ruled that the resolution was not privileged, the point having been made by Mr. Hall, and it had to go over until today under the rules.

Mr. Field's resolution is as follows:

Whereas, there is a measure now pending before the general assembly, known as the "child labor bill," prohibiting the employment of children of a certain age in the cotton mills of the state, and,

Whereas, the questions involved are very important to the industrial and social interests of the people of Georgia, and it being the desire of every fair-minded legislator to pass intelligently upon said proposed legislation; therefore,

Be it resolved, by the house of representatives, the senate concurring. That a committee of five be appointed, consisting of three from the house and two from the senate, whose duty it shall be to visit the cotton mills located in not fewer than three nor more than five cities or towns of this state and there visit the homes and working rooms of the operatives of said mills for the purpose of ascertaining the true condition of said operatives as compared with laboring people engaged in other pursuits. Said committee shall file a complete and accurate report of its finding with the clerk of the house and secretary of the senate within fifteen days from the time of appointment.

Mr. Houston, of Fulton, introduced a resolution providing that the child labor bill be made a special order for Tuesday, July 7, immediately after the reading of the journal, and that 300 copies of the bill be printed for the use of the members of the house. The resolution was referred to the committee on rules.

To Adjourn for the Fourth.

The house adopted a resolution by Mr. Slaton, of Fulton, providing that when the house adjourned on Friday, July 3, it stand adjourned until Monday morning, July 6.

The resolution as originally presented was amended by striking out the words "and that Saturday, July 4, be declared a dies non." The house is opposed to any more "dies non," and it is not likely the session will be burdened with any of them.

And how could the glorious Fourth, under any circumstances, be denominated a "dies non?"

Mr. Miller, of Muscogee, wanted to amend the resolution so as to adjourn from Thursday to Monday so as to give the members an opportunity to attend the Georgia Bar Association meeting at Tallulah Falls and hear the address of Judge Alton B. Parker.

"What is that amendment?" asked Mr. Hall, of Bibb.

He was told it provided for adjournment on Thursday.

"Let's quit now," he said, and laughter greeted the remark as it was presented to the house by the speaker in the shape of a motion.

Mr. Miller's amendment was lost, and the adjournment will be on Friday.

A pressing invitation from the Georgia Bar Association, signed by President Burton Smith, urging the members of the general assembly to attend the sessions of the association at Tallulah Falls on July 2, 3 and 4, was read, but no action was taken with regard to it. It is likely, however, that only routine business of an unimportant nature will be transacted on Friday, as many of the members of the house have expressed their intention of going to Tallulah Falls.

Will Go to Lindale.

Many of the members of the house will spend the Fourth of July at Lindale, near Rome. A pressing invitation was extended yesterday, through Mr. Knowles, of Floyd, calling attention to the fact that Governor Terrell, the state house officers and the Fifth regiment infantry will be there on that occasion, and on motion of Mr. Steed, of Taylor, the invitation was accepted with thanks by a unanimous vote. A letter was also received from Captain H. P. Melkleham, of company E, Fifth regiment, and manager of the mills at Lindale, urging the members of the legislature to visit Lindale. It will be one of the greatest days ever known in Floyd county.

On resolution of Mr. Slaton, of Fulton, the house unanimously voted to grant the use of the hall of the house to the Daughters of the American Revolution for public services on Saturday, July 4.

A resolution to make the police patrol bill, providing for a police patrol in each militia district by Mr. Blackburn, of Fulton, the special order for Tuesday, July 14, was referred to the committee on rules.

By a vote of 68 to 38 the house reconsidered its action in defeating the bill by Mr. Shannon, of Monroe, to amend the law relating to the selection of jury commissioners.

New Bills in the House.

The following new bills were introduced in the house yesterday:

By Messrs. Mayson and Candler of DeKalb—To amend the charter of the town of Decatur in the county of DeKalb, providing for a bond issue for sewers and water works system.

By Mr. Mitchell of Thomas—To amend the charter of the town of Cairo in Thomas county.

By Messrs. Mayson and Candler of DeKalb—To amend the charter of the town of Decatur, so as to provide for a system of sewerage.

By Mr. Conner of Bartow—To amend an act to protect fish in the streams and other water courses of this state.

By Messrs. Stovall of Chatham and Howes of Elbert—A resolution directing the state printer to print and bind certain public records.

By Mr. Stanford of Harris—To provide compensation to the clerks of the superior courts for making out records in felony cases and transmitting same to the supreme court.

By Messrs. Mayson and Candler of DeKalb—To amend the charter of the town of Decatur in DeKalb county so as to provide for a system of sidewalks.

By Mr. Maples of Mitchell—To incorporate the town of Baconton in Mitchell county.

By Mr. Beauchamp of Butts—A resolution for the relief of I. J. Slaughter as surety on a criminal bond.

By Mr. Dunbar of Richmond—A joint resolution to appropriate the sum of $50,000 to the department of agriculture for the purpose of making a display of Georgia's agricultural and kindred resources at the Louisiana Purchase exposition.

By Mr. Derrick of Rabun—To prohibit the owners and operators of saw mills from allowing sawdust and refuse from such mills from emptying into the mining streams of the state.

By Mr. Rainey of Terrell—To incorporate the Bronwood school district in Terrell county.

By Mr. Harden of Chatham—To amend section 1254 of the code of 1895, which provides for the granting of pensions to aged and infirm confederate soldiers by inserting immediately after the word "duty" the words "either in the field or on detailed service."

TOM EVANS IS APPOINTED.

Takes Charge of the Office of City Warden and Dr. Buchanan Goes to Office of Tax Collector.

Thomas Evans, one of the candidates for the place of city warden, has virtually been appointed. He has been notified to make arrangements to take charge of the office and was yesterday given an insight into the work by T. J. Buchanan, who will leave the office.

There were a number of candidates for the place of city warden, and strong efforts were made to have all of them appointed. Alderman T. D. Longino, the chairman of the committee on hospital and charities, however, favored Mr. Evans, and this secured the appointment, as Mayor Howell had announced that he would be governed by the desires of the head of the relief department.

Mr. Buchanan goes into the office of E. T. Payne, city tax collector, as his second assistant, and this arrangement, it is believed, will give those who are anxious to pay their taxes much better arrangements.

Insurance Notes.

An important announcement which was the principal topic of conversation in Atlanta insurance circles yesterday was the report that the Merchants' Mutual Insurance Company, of Monroe, Ga., would soon move their general offices to this city. This question will be definitely decided upon at a meeting of the directors to be held here today. At the same time the matter of increasing the company's guarantee fund from $10,000 to $50,000 will be decided upon.

Although the Merchants' Mutual Fire Insurance Company only began doing business last January, the volume of business has grown at such a rapid rate as to warrant the contemplated move to the insurance center of the south. Wade Vaughn, an underwriter who has had a wide experience both as a local and general agent, is the secretary of the company. He has lived in Atlanta and has any number of friends here who are very glad of the opportunity to welcome him back.

The board of directors includes among its members many representative men of Georgia. They are W. H. Nunnally, of Monroe; W. P. Wallace, of Rutledge; F. Wade Vaughn, of Monroe; E. M. Rookwood Pottery

"Then to the lips of this poor urn Pleased, the secret of my life to learn."
—Omar Khayyam.

Pottery and the potter's wheel have ever possessed a mysterious fascination for the mind. And the history of pottery is the history of human development.

Rookwood Pottery is a notable achievement in modern art. The artistic shapes, the mellow tones, the soft brilliancy render it a pottery widely sought after by the true artlover and connoisseur.

TRIBUTES PAID DEAD MEMBERS

Senators Hold Memorial Exercises for Late P. J. Sullivan.

RAILROAD CHARTER BILL CAUSES SHORT DEBATE

Would Increase Judges' Salaries Nominations and Confirmations. Several Bills Passed and Some New Ones Introduced.

The opening prayer in the senate was delivered by Rev. Luke G. Johnson, of Atlanta.

Senator Perry reported favorably the house bill, by Mr. Tigner, restraining the tax levy to 5 mills.

The senate accepted the invitation of the State Bar Association to visit Tallulah and hear the speech of Judge Parker, of New York.

The first debate of the session came over a railroad bill, which was finally passed.

The Memory of Senator Sullivan.

Touching and eloquent tribute to the memory of the late president pro tem of the senate was paid by his fellow-senators yesterday. The report of the special committee appointed to draft suitable resolutions came up as the special order of the day. These were presented by Senator Skelton, who made a few appropriate remarks. The resolutions read as follows:

Whereas, during the past session of this body, Hon. Patriek J. Sullivan, the distinguished senator from the eighteenth senatorial district, while in the efficient and faithful discharge of his arduous duties as a member of the general assembly, was suddenly stricken by death; and,

Whereas, his eminent ability as a lawmaker, and his untiring devotion to the duties of the official position, which for two terms he had honored at the request of a grateful electorate, commanded and deserved the unstinted respect of the state which he so faithfully represented, and this body in which he so earnestly served; and,

Whereas, the close ties formed by his relations with the members of this body were so tender, and yet so strong, that his untimely death seemed not only a loss, but a calamity.

Be it, therefore, resolved by the senate of Georgia, that in the death of Senator Sullivan this chamber has lost one of its most capable and unselfish members, his district an able, faithful and fearless representative, and this state a generous, useful and patriotic citizen;

Be it further resolved, that these resolutions be entered upon the journal of the senate and a copy thereof be furnished to the press.

Following the reading of the resolutions, which were adopted unanimously and with a standing vote, Senator Davis and Senator Bill Smith paid eloquent tributes to the character, the personality and the success of Senator Sullivan. The exercises were most inpressive.

More Time Granted to Railroads.

The senate passed the bill, introduced by Mr. Howell by request, granting to railroads in process of construction an extension of charter sights under certain circumstances.

The bill provides for the amendment of section 2166 of the code which provides for the forfeiture of charters granted to corporations to construct railroads when the companies have found it impossible to construct and operate the required length of road within the time specified by the charters. The gist of the measure is set forth in the following additional provisions which are, by this bill, added to the section referred to:

"Provided, the secretary of state, for cause shown, may relieve any forfeiture above provided for and extend the time of constructing, equipping and operating said 15 miles of road, or the entire road, if the same be of less length that 15 miles, of any such railroad company which has come within the provisons of the above clause, for a period of two years. Only one such extension shall be granted, and said forfeiture shall be relieved only once. Such relief may be granted in favor of railroad corporations which have become subject to said forfeiture within the last two years. Such relief shall not be granted unless applied for within one year after the cause of forfeiture has arisen, and such relief shall not be granted to any corporation which had not graded at least ten miles of its roadway at the time of the arising of such cause for forfeiture on the entire roadway, if the same be so long as ten miles."

When the bill was called up, Senator Skelton said he would have to vote against it as he considered it retroactive and unconstitutional.

Senator Perry, chairman of the committee which reported the bill, argued strongly in its favor, contending that it was neither retroactive nor unconstitutional, and explaining the difference between the conditions surrounding railroad construction in the northern part of the state and those obtaining in southern Georgia. He contended that it is sometimes a physical impossibility for the construction of railroads in the mountainous regions to meet the time limit fixed by the general law. It was to meet this handicap that this bill was introduced.

On the final vote, the bill was passed with but five senators dissenting.

Nominations and Confirmations.

A message was received from Governor Terrell, containing announcement of the following nominations:

Hon. W. A. Scott, judge of the county court of Clay county.

Hon. Leon C. Greer, solicitor of the county court of Macon county.

Hon. C. C. Bush, judge of the county court of Wilkes county.

Hon. Philip W. Davis, judge of the city court of Lexington.

Hon. James Davidson, solicitor of the county court of Greene county.

In executive session the senate confirmed the nominations which were sent to the senate on Monday.

Senate Bills Passed and Introduced.

Other senate bills passed were as follows:

By Senator Skelton—To provide for the collection of the revenue of the state arising under special occupation and license taxes by issuing execution therefor.

By Senator Tisinger—To regulate the law of year's support.

Three new senate bills were introduced, as follows:

By Senator Harrell—To provide that the judge and solicitor of the city court of Bainbridge shall be elected instead of appointed.

By Senator Symons—To amend the general tax act so as to exempt confederate veterans who are practitioners of law, medicine or dentistry, from payment of license tax.

By Senator Comas—To amend the constitution so as to increase the salaries of judges of the superior court to $2,500 per annum.

Will Go to Tallulah.

The invitation extended the members of the legislature by the State Bar Association through Mr. Burton Smith, its president, to attend the meeting of the association at Tallulah Falls on Friday, was accepted by the senate.

After the invitation had been read, Senator Perry moved that the senate extend its thanks for the invitation and accept it. This motion was adopted unanimously.

The special train carrying members of the legislature will leave Atlanta Friday morning, returning Friday evening. It is understood most of the members of the senate will go.

NEW DESIGN FOR POSTAL

Extension of Cables Under Pacific Ocean Is Properly Commemorated by Company.

To commemorate an epoch in its history and an event of signal importance to the country—the extension of the cables under the Pacific ocean from San Francisco to Hawaii, Guam, Manila and China—a new telegram form has ben designed and adopted by the Postal Telegraph-Cable Company.

The distinctive feature of the form is a [illegible] device, or "trademark," elliptical in shape, to indicate that the company's lines extend more than two-thirds of the distance from east to west around the world. The border of the ellipse is a representation of an armored submarine cable with the words "Postal Telegraph Commercial Cable System," in white on the blue ground of a marginal band surrounding a reduced map showing in silhouette the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, the shores of Europe and Asia and the continent of North America, and indicating the routes of ocean cables and the main American land lines of the Commercial Cable and Postal Telegraph companies.

The device is a graphic delineation in a remarkably small space of the comprehensive and far-reaching telegraph system which will endure as a fitting monument to the late John W. Mackay, in whose patriotism and public spirit it was conceived, and by whose sagacity, financial ability and indomitable energy it was established and developed despite public opposition, until it gained public recognition as one of the most successful as well as beneficial business enterprises of the times.

The secret of its success is an open one and is summed up in the phrase that has become the motto of its employees: "Intelligence, diligence, energy and courtesy make the best telegraph service."

It is justifiable pride that leads to the reiteration in the company's advertisements of the question, "Did you ever stop to compare the efficient telegraph service of today with the telegraph service as it was before the Postal and Commercial companies entered the field?" followed by the answer, "It is better now, and we did it."

SAD STORY OF THIS BABY IS BURIED IN ITS GRAVE

The body of an unknown white baby was taken to the potter's field in Westview cemetery yesterday afternoon by W. H. Meyers & Co., the city's undertaker, and there was left with nothing except a rude plank to mark the new-made grave

There was nothing that could have been put upon the headstone had there been one, except the date of the infant's death and the announcement that the municipality had paid a small sum, a very small sum, to have the body interred.

Where the mother of the baby is, or what the story of the child's life is, the officials of the city do not know. They will make no effort to ascertain either. They think, maybe, it is just as well to bury the story with the child.

Four weeks ago a well-dressed woman—they are usually well dressed—appeared at the door of an old negro woman of the name of Adkins, who lives with her husband at 4 Newman street. The white woman declared that she was on the eve of her departure to Florida, where she would remain one week. She wanted the negro woman to keep the child until her return.

The arrangements were soon made and the negress was given $15 for the trouble of keeping the infant during the week.

That was four weeks ago. The white woman, who had stated that her name was "Mrs. Howard," has not been heard from.

Monday morning the baby died. It was an affection of the stomach

The negro woman went to the office of the city warden, T. J. Buchanan, produced a death certificate and asked that the baby be buried by the city. The municipal authorities took charge of the body and the infant was buried yesterday afternoon.

It is a simple story enough with very little of mystery in it. The riddle is soon guessed.

MORRIS ATTACKS HALL'S ATTITUDE

Warm Discussion Before Appropriations Committee.

Speaker Regarded Mr. Hall's Attitude Regarding Doorkeepers and Gallery Keepers as a Personal Fight on Himself.

There was a heated discussion before the general appropriations committee of the house yesterday afternoon in which the principals were Speaker N. A. Morris, of Floyd, and Hon. Joe Hill Hall, of Bibb.

The bone of contention was Mr. Hall's bill which was up for consideration, providing for an amendment to the general appropriations bill so as to reduce the number of gallery keepers of the house from three to one, and the number of assistant doorkeepers from five to two. In the end Speaker Morris was sustained in his position by the vote of 14 to 4.

While the consideration of this bill was the occasion for the war of words, it was hardly the whole cause of it. The cause was rather the persistent fight which Mr. Hall has made to cut down the number of doorkeepers and gallery keepers, both at the last session and at this, these appointments being practically the only patronage which falls to the lot of the speaker.

Speaker Morris was heard in opposition to the bill, and took occasion to say that the house was tired of the way in which Mr. Hall kept up this effort to cut off the house employees.

"It is a continuation of the speakership fight," Mr. Morris declared. "The question was never raised until after my election to the speakership, though Mr. Hall has been a member of the house for some years prior to that."

Mr. Morris said he considered it nothing more than an effort to cut off the speaker's patronage and regarded it as a personal fight on himself.

Mr. Hall was equally emphatic in reply. He criticised the speaker for coming before the committee to oppose the bill. He declared there was nothing personal in his action, but that it was a principle he was fighting for. He said that he had put Mr. Mitchell on notice that if he were elected speaker, he would do the same thing.

This war of words was continued for some time, and Clerk John T. Boifeuillet was called in to explain how the number of gallery keepers and doorkeepers, three and five, respectively, got into the general appropriations bill, Mr. Hall having declared it was never the intention of the house to provide for that number.

Finally at the end of the discussion the committee decided by a vote of 14 to 4 to report the bill back with the recommendation that it do not pass.

The committee approved an appropriation of $3,000 to supplement the insurance fund and to provide for insurance on the new buildings owned by the state at Milledgeville and Athens.

LUMBER YARD SET ON FIRE.

Incendiaries Applied Match to Randall's Lumber Yard—Citizens Prevent Conflagration.

Incendiaries tried to burn up Randall's lumber yard, at the corner of Marietta street and North avenue, last night about 11 o'clock, but people passing along the street discovered the flames in time to prevent what might have been a very disastrous conflagration.

Unknown persons entered the lumber yards from the State street side and after pouring kerosene on a pile of lumber applied a match. The fire was quickly kindled and a bright flame was burning when it was discovered. Bicycle Officers Wells and Blackstone investigated the affair, but secured no clew by which to ascertain who the incendiaries were.

FELL 35 FEET FROM BRIDGE.

William Brown Sustains Serious Injuries by Fall—Was Found on Railroad Track.

William Brown, who lives at 137 Greensferry avenue, fell from the Humphries street bridge last night about 10:30 o'clock and sustained serious injuries.

It is not known how he fell. The bridge has high railings on both sides. He was found under the bridge by Officer Englett and he was so badly injured that he could not give any account of the affair.

It was found that Brown's left arm was broken and he had sustained internal injuries which may prove fatal.

The bridge is about 30 feet above the railroad tracks. Brown must have fallen over the railings which made the fall about 35 feet. As he struck the crossties it is almost a miracle that he was not killed outright.

BOTH LEGS WERE CUT OFF.

William Elliott Went to Sleep with His Legs Across Railroad Track. Engine Cut Them Off.

William Elliott, a farmer who lives on the Mason and Turner's Ferry road, near the city's dumping grounds, went to sleep last night about 9 o'clock, while intoxicated, and laid his legs across the tracks of the Western and Atlantic railroad. A switch engine came along and ran over his legs, cutting them both off above the knees.

Elliott was picked up later, unconscious, and was taken to his home. He is in a critical condition and may die from his injuries. He has a wife and two little children.

MANY INSULTS FOR PREMIER

Count Hedervary Faces a Mob in the Hungarian Diet.

Budapest, June 30.—Premier Hedervary's appearance today in the lower house of the Hugarian diet for the purpose of unfolding the ministerial programme was signalized by scenes of extraordinary uproar, during which many insults were hurled at the premier.

After preliminary remarks concerning his appointment as premier, Count Hedervery referred to the parliamentary troubles and to the extraordinary condition of affairs, primarily due to the bill increasing the number of Hungarian recruits for the imperial army, and said that as a means of reestablishing the normal state of affairs in the lower house the government had decided to suspend for the present any discussion of that measure.

Count Hedervary's expression "for the present" called out uproarious protests from the left. Indignant shouts of "trickery," "disgraceful," "revolting" rang through the chamber. When the premier was again able to make himself heard he announced his intention of asking the house to vote the financial indemnity bill and to give him authority to commence negotiations for commercial treaties before the customs tariff was completed.

July Time's Here; Is Your Summer Suit?

It's poor business if nothing else to appear less prosperous than you are—James Whitcomb Riley says, "I would go well dressed if I had to go hungry."

Now, it's one thing to find a "continuously-good-looking" suit and another to find a "look-good-suit-when-you-buy-it."

No clothing shows this contrast as markedly as the summer suit.

It's all in the making. A suit made as we make our suits, will look good the summer through.

Takes good materials in the first place; takes good cutting; good tailoring; takes such things as hand seamed collars and hand padded shoulders and hand worked button holes, and so on. Costs more money but it pays—37 odd years making them thus has proven it in our case.

SOCIETY

Innovation in Hair Dressing.

THERE has been a new fashion introduced this season at Newport by a number of leaders—that of wearing the hair loosely about the shoulders. It was started in revival of a style that was originally set during the presidential administration of Andrew Jackson by Peggy O'Neal, the famous historical beauty. The fashion of wearing the hair in ringlets about the shoulders is becoming known as the Peggy O'Neal revival, and is spreading from Newport to various other fashionable centers. With this quaint coiffure, the early colonial mode of dressing has sprung into vogue. It is familiarized as the Peggy O'Neal fashion, and it includes the drooping shouldered waist, and the three or four flounced skirt—such as our great grandmothers used to wear.

For the first time it is now publicly known that this style of coiffure and attire, supposed to have been revived solely by leaders at Newport, has, in reality, been revived by a famous western beauty, Miss Campbell, daughter of ex-Governor Campbell, of Ohio. It is to Miss Campbell that all credit is due for reviving this charming fashion of the long tresses and picturesque attire. This celebrated and popular beauty posed for the miniature frontispiece of Peggy O'Neal in Alfred Henry Lewis' new patriotic novel of this title. Miss Campbell is seen in the frontispiece of the novel, which is drawn in colors by Henry Hutt, with her hair hanging in unconfined clusters about her shoulders. Her extensive acquaintance in New York city brought about a following in this fashion, which quickly spread to Newport.

It is rather interesting to learn that a lady who has just returned from Newport states that several of the fashionable women, who are leading the style in wearing their hair a la Peggy O'Neal, have framed in their boudoirs the miniature frontispiece of Miss Campbell, which they have taken out of the novel. As the novel has been dramatized for a certain popular actress, whose name will shortly be made public, the Peggy O'Neal fashion will doubtless be the rage next winter.

"The fashion is one that cannot become general," said a well known leader of fashion in Atlanta when discussing the threatened innovation. "For the past ten or twenty years the uses of the hot iron, crimping machines and preparation conducive to unnatural curl have so hampered the growth of hair with the women of this generation that save in exceptional cases the fin de siecle woman and sch of the century at hand cannot claim that her hair is her crowning glory."

Only one woman out of about every ten can boast a growth of hair that will admit of the coiffure, which is so beautifully shown in Miss Campbell's miniature.

"It is a coiffure that will scarcely admit of the all accommodating 'braid,' 'switch' or false curls, not even the average debutante having the amount of hair that makes the picture of her grandmother such a pretty one.

"Mrs. Patrick Campbell, in her interpretation of the 'Maeterlinkian' drama, in which the young Belgian makes woman's hair in flowing tresses the crowning glory of femininity, took the initiative step in the fashion of flowing hair."

"But so comparatively few people tried to understand Maeterlink's women or any of the symbolism thereto, it was not surprising that no fad or fashion grew out of Mrs. Campbell's interpretation of the part in any line.

"However, the fashion may have its good effect," continued the Atlanta woman, "in leading women to take better care of the hair, in the direction of preserving it in its naturalness rather than trying to change its texture, color and curl by artificial preparations and the merciless use of the curling iron."

MISS M'GOWAN PHELAN'S dancing party last evening at the Piedmont Driving Club was a beautiful occasion at which a number of the members of the younger set were entertained.

The house was gay with quantities of nasturtiums and sweet peas, and at the close of the game, which was six-handed euchre, an elaborate luncheon was served.

The first prize, a silver hat pin, was won by Miss Susan Fort, of Mount Airy, and the consolation, an embroidered stock, by Miss Ethel Kelly.

Mrs. Crichton was much admired in a gown of soft white mull, and the guests of honor also wore dainty dresses of white.

Mrs. Bagley, Mrs. John Moore and Mrs. Eugene Crichton assisted the hostess in the entertainment of the guests.

Cofield-Arnold.

LAST evening the marriage of Miss Anna Louise Cofield to Mr. Howard Henry Arnold was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents in West End, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Luke G. Johnson.

At 9 o'clock the bridal party entered the parlor to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, which was played by Miss Anna Belle Wood. The bridesmaids, Miss Emma Gray, of Savannah, and Miss Janie B. King, of Roswell, entered first, being followed by the bride, who came in with her sister, Miss Edyth Cofield, the maid of honor. Before an improvised altar of palms they were met by the bridegroom, who entered with his best man, Mr. Eugene Arnold.

The bride was becomingly attired in a handsome gown of white crepe de chine, trimmed in Irish point lace and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses. The maid of honor wore a stylish toilet of white silk and carried an armful of white carnations. The bridesmaids were also daintily attired in dresses of white silk mull, with pink sashes and carried pink carnations. The spacious parlors were artistically decorated with palms and ferns, with a profusion of pink and white carnations. The idea of hearts and flowers was carried out in the refreshments which were also in pink and white.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold left on the 12 o'clock train for the mountains, where they will spend the remainder of the summer, bearing with them the good wishes of a host of friendss.

DR. F. C. M'CONNELL RESIGNS.

Corresponding Secretary of Baptist Board Goes to Kansas City.

At a meeting yesterday afternoon of the home mission board of the Southern Baptist convention, Dr. F. C. McConnell, corresponding secretary, tendered his resignation, to take effect on August 31, and it was accepted by the board.

Dr. McConnell resigns to accept the pastorate of the Calvary Baptist church, of Kansas City, Mo., which is one of the largest churches in the whole country and which comprises a wealthy and influential membership. Dr. McConnell will assume his new duties on September 1.

A committee of five was appointed to nominate a successor to Dr. McConnell, but the impression prevails that a nomination will not be made for several weeks. The committee consists of Dr. W. W. Landrum, president of the board, chairman; J. J. Maddox, Dr. John E. White, Dr. E. L. Connally and F. J. Cooledge. A committee to draft resolutions expressive of the high regard of the board for Dr. McConnell was also appointed, as follows: Dr. W. W. Landrum, Dr. John E. White and Dr. T. P. Bell.

Dr. S. Y. Jamieson, secretary of the home mission board of the Georgia Baptist convention, is being prominently mentioned as the probable successor to Dr. McConnell.

Grape-Nuts

FAT vs BRAIN

Food that Makes Brilliant Newspapers.

Nervous prostration cannot continue if the right kind of food is used, but food that will build fat does not always contain the elements necessary for rebuilding the soft gray matter in the nerve centers.

A lady tells how she got well from using Grape-Nuts Breakfast Food. "I was treated by several physicians at the hospital. My disease was pronounced neurasthenia (nervous prostration). The doctors gave me various nerve tonics without producing any beneficial results. I finally got so weak that I could not work either physically or mentally.

"About two years ago I began the use of Grape-Nuts and a marked improvement set in at once. In eight weeks I had regained my strength and could do my old work even better than before, that of writing for the press. All honor to Grape-Nuts."

BABIES' PARADISE IS INMAN PARK

Plenty of Shade and Grass and Singing Birds.

Sleek Jersey Cows, Rich Milk and Golden Butter for Suburbanites Vegeta les with the Dew on. A Charming Neighbor- - hood.

Inman Park is a paradise for babies and children. There is the smoothness of the tiled sidewalks, the abundant shade everywhere and the soft, sweet grass on which to tumble about.

It is a small thing for children to spend their young lives in surroundings that are peaceful, beautiful and melodious with singing birds?

Every mocking bird and thrush singing in the trees is worth its weight in rubies to the little ones listening. The shy woodpeckers, noisy jays and sad cat birds are constant delights, flitting about from tree to tree, but a redbird is to most children the prettiest thing in feathers, and there are a few that come into the trees in door yards now and then and thrill all beholders with their rich beauty.

Springvale park, which was given to the city by the East Atlanta Land Company, is in the center of Inman Park, and is a rendezvous for children and nurses trundling baby carriages along Park Lane to the Spa Spring, which is a fine appetizing and pleasant water for drinking. The children in Inman Park are all healthy and merry and good to look upon. They live out of doors all summer long and "in their hearts are the birds and the sunshine; in their thoughts the brooklet's flow." The vacant lots opposite Springvale park are also a favorite resort of children. There are numbers of tall pines, like grim sentinels guarding the army of daisies that erect and alert as soldiers, yet suggest only "peace and quiet and loving words" in their beautiful uniforms of white and gold. The small lake in Springvale park is a great attraction. It is the peaceful home of small catfish, immense Salvinivoiced bull frogs and aquatic plants. An idyl of peace and happiness breathes in tender whispers from the cool surface of the lake, flecked with the broad leaves of white lilies and pink lotus buds. A steep screening bank is on one side of the lake with luxuriant ivy vines covering its surface. Beside the walk around the lake are many settees with flowering shrubs near, where visitors may rest and enjoy the delicious coolness. There are no blue forget-me-nots that grow for happy lovers, but plenty of skimming swallows in summer twilights to give a note of life to the scene.

The view from Poplar circle and Hurt street of the distant boulevards with electric cars going to and fro at night like a procession of chariots touched with the magic wand of some fairy godmother is a most compensating spectacle. It is sweet "to lounge in the ilex shadows" and swing in a grapevine swing for a delicious summer hour, but very comforting to know that electric cars are always at hand to carry you swiftly back to business and the big office buildings.

There are three chuurches in Inman Park—the Episcopal church of the Epiphany, the Presbyterian and the Methodist Episcopal church, south.

The Presbyterian church is very pleasantly situated in a grove of oaks and is well attended, having a goodly membership. The Methodist church is very handsomely built of granite with some beautiful memorial windows and is draped richly with a tender green mantle of ivy. The Methodist bishop of Georgia, Rev. Warren A. Candler, lives in a lovely place in Inman Park. The Episcopal is a small mission church, but has a fine choir.

The Edgewood avenue school is situated just within Inman Park and is convenient to all children living there. It is a fine large building of red brick. There are no teachers in the city schools superior to those of Edgewood avenue, and the building is one of the most up-to-date and substantial of all the school buildings.

The street car service to Inman Park is very fine and the time from the center of the city to the park is about seven minutes.

The natural formation of the land which was made into the park caused all rain to flow away down gentle slopes into channels that carry it far away. There is no drainage whatever from the city toward the park. All the lots were properly graded and the sewers built before any of the property was offered for sale. Such restrictions were placed about the lots as to insure only desirable residents and unobjectionable houses. Fine houses are preferred as a matter of course, but desirable owners of less expensive homes are most sought.

A man of moderate means and good character can build a cosy cottage, neat and tasteful, in Inman Park and find all that heart could wish in the way of neighbors as well as pleasant surroundings. The residents become acquainted, and all are loyal to one another. Everybody looks upon all residents as neighbors and there is much delightful sociability among them.

The lots are large and some of them have fine old apple trees planted thirty years ago. Many have grape vines, vegetable gardens and fruit trees such as cherry, peach, plum, figs and apricots. Many families keep fine Jersey cows and have such dairy products as few dwellers in town can buy at any price. Some households have both vegetable and flower gardens in perfection and have their vases filled with blossoms and their dishes with salads with the dew upon both.

At the sale tomorrow, July 2, at 3 o'clock p. m., thirty-five lots will be disposed of at auction. This will be the last of the East Atlanta Land Company's holdings in the park. After tomorrow all the property will be in the hands of those who desire to build or who will hold for higher prices.

ATLANTA READY FOR BAPTISTS

Arrangements for Their Big Convention Have About Been Completed.

Arrangements and details for the big gathering of members of the Baptist Young People's Union of America in Atlanta, July 9, to 12, are being rapidly completed by the local executive committee and the indications point to a thoroughly successful meeting in every particular. The committtee has all of the different features well in hand and is very much gratified at the result of its efforts.

The sessions of the convention will be held in the auditoriumm at Exposition park and it has been decided that the meeting shall be convened at 9:30 o'clock on Thursday morning, July 9. Two main sessions will be held daily, one in the morning and one at night, the afternoons being devoted principally to conferences. The deliberations of the convention will be presided over by John H. Chapman, of Chicago, president of the organization.

Delegates will be present from all sections of the United States and from Canada and it is expected that the total number will be in the neighborhood of 6,000. The programme contains a number of addresses and these will be delivered by prominent workers in the union. The music will be furnished by a large chorus choir of several hundred voices and it is anticipated that this will be one of the pronounced features of the meeting. The chorus is now in training.

At the opening session, the delegates will be welcomed to Atlanta on behalf of the state by Governor J. M. Terrell and on behalf of the city by Mayor Evan P. Howell. Judge John T. Pendleton will deliver the address of welcome for the Baptist churches of Atlanta and ex-Governor W. J. Northen will give a welcome on behalf of the Baptist Young People's Union of the city. Governor Northen is a member of the executive committee of the Baptist Young People's Union of America by reason of his holding the office of president of the Georgia Baptist convention. The addresses of welcome will be responded to by Dr. L. L. Henson, Rhode Island.

Among the leading speakers who are to participate in the meeting are the following: Dr. Robert Van Deventer, of Savannah; Professor George W. Macon, of Mercer university; Dr. W. H. Geistweit, of Chicago, editor of The Baptist Union, the offical organ of the organization, and J. W. Bailey, of Raleigh; N. C., editor of The Biblical Recorder. Dr. Ira M. Price, of the University of Chicago, who has charge of one of the branches of the Christian culture course of the convention, will conduct one of the conferences.

On Monday, July 13, after the conclusion of the convention an excursion will be run to Tallulah Falls and it is expected that large numbers of the delegates will take advantage of this opportunity to view the wild and beautiful mountain scenery of north Georgiaa.

Birmingham, Ala., June 30.—(Special.)—Birmingham landed on Killen in two innings today and won the game. He was effective six innings, allowing only three one-baggers in that time, but five hits were bunched in Birmingham's two last innings and the game was the Coal Barons.

The feature of the game was Bennett's home run in the sixth. This was the first run of the game and raised the spirits of the visiting team and there few supporters here.

Keenan for Birmingham was effective from start to finish. He allowed only four hits, one of which was Bennett's home run; the other three were scattered through the game.

The 1,500 fans who traveled to the shadow of the slag pile witnessed as pretty an exhibition as the heart could desire. It was nip and tuck for six innings, neither team getting a man to third. The fun began in that inning and the last three innings were filled with pretty work. The game was errorless with two exceptions, one of which was costly to Atlanta.

The crowd had been quiet as death until the sixth, when Bennett put the ball over right field fence and trotted the bases amid great applause. He seemed to loosen things all the way around. He was the second man up in the inning and the two who followed him went out easily. Birmingham negotiated nothing in her half.

In the seventh Atlanta went out one, two, three. When the Coal Diggers came to the bat Vaughan, the first man up, got a pretty single over short. Millerick had fire in his eye when he appeared at the slab and landed hard for what seemed to be a single over first. Winters attempted to catch it before it struck the ground, but it was too nearly on a line and he failed. He made a desperate lunge for it but it went past him and Vaughan came home, while Millerick went to third with none out, and with a man on third it looked as if Birmingham would certainly score, but Killen settled down and pitched great ball. The next three men up went out in order.

Atlanta failed to do anything in the eighth, but when Birmingham came to the bat Bennett allowed them to start something. Keenan was the first up and went out from Lynch to Stafford. Duffey knocked a hot one to Bennett, who fumbled it and allowed the quick little fielder to reach first safe. O'Brien came up and after carefully taking Killen's measure, slapped a safe one over short stop for a bag. Duffey went to second. Then old "Daddy" Vaughan came up and the first ball that was thrown him he reached way down and got on the end of his bat and raised it just three feet above short stop's head for a pretty line drive for one bag. Duffey and O'Brien scored.

Millerick came up next and drove one to center for a single, advancing Vaughan to second, but he died there and Millerick was forced to stay at first. Lawler and Miller went out easily, Killen again rising to the emergency and pitching great ball.

In the first half of the ninth Keenan struck out Bennett and Crozier, the first two men to the bat, and Winter flew out to Duffey.

BADLY CRIPPLED IS SHAMROCK III

Traveler Which Holds Main Sheet Is Carried Away.

It Is Possible That the Boat Will Be Repaired in Time for Today's Race—Reliance Scores Victory Over Columbia and Constitution.

New York, June 30.—Three minutes after she crossed the starting line, of what was to have been a 30-mile race over the international course off Sandy Hook today, Shamrock III carried away the traveler by which her main sheet is fastened to the deck and was compelled to withdraw. She may be repaired in time to race tomorrow.

A twelve-knot southwest wind was kicking up whitecaps and there was a prospect of a fine race. The boats had gone less than half a mile when the heavy steel rod snapped off.

Reliance Again Is Victor.

Newport, R. I., June 30.—The Reliance scored another decisive victory over the Constitution and Columbia today in a 15-mile thrash to windward and return. Beat for beat, the Constitution won over the Columbia, but time allowance will probably give the latter second place.

The new craft sailed the course in seven minutes, two seconds less time than the Constitution, and eight minutes one second less than the older boat. The Constitution covered the 30 miles in 59 seconds less than the Columbia.

It was a cracking race, under conditions supposed to be more to the liking of the Columbia than either of the other boats, but the Reliance again proved herself to be the better boat, both to windward and running dead before the breeze.

Only during the first 5 miles of the race was there any doubt about the result and while this distance was being sailed there was a battle royal between the Reliance and Columbia, which resulted in the former establishing a commanding lead.

The race was sailed in a breeze of from 11 to 12 miles strength, and after Point Judith had been left behind on the way out to the weather mark a long rolling sea was met. The Reliance dipped deeper into the waves than did either of the other boats, but it had no retarding effect upon her speed.

HILL BARRED FROM LEAGUE

With Kennedy and Wiseman Out of the Game Nashville Is Weakened.

Memphis, Tenn., June 30.—(Special.)—President Kavanaugh tonight wired Newt Fisher that under no circumstances must Hill play again. Fisher wired last night that Kennedy and Wiseman had left him and asked to use Hill today.

President Kavanaugh wired permission and then wired Secretary Farrel that he had done so. Tonight he received a wire from Farrel that under no circumstances must Hill be allowed to play, and President Kavanaugh acted accordingly.

SOUTHERN LEAGUE.

Memphis 11, Little Rock 5.

Memphis, June 30.—The final game of the series went to the locals today by the decisive score of 11 to 5. It was a game of heavy hitting and woeful errors. The feature of the game was the batting of C. Miller, the Memphis center fielder. Out of five times at bat he lined out three three-base hits and a two-bagger. Dunham pitched a good game. Watt was knocked out of the box during the first inning, allowing three hits and three runs, and Persons was substituted. Attendance, 1,200.

Score:	R	H	E
Little Rock	0	2	0	0	0	0	0	3	0	5	7	7

Batteries—Dunham and Stratton; Watt, Persons and Lynch.

Shreveport 9, New Orleans 3.

Shreveport, La., June 30.—Shreveport experienced no difficulty today in taking the measure of Applegate, New Orleans' new Worcester, Mass., pitcher. He was pounded all over the lot and the Pelicans never had a chance to win. Hughey pitched a good game and was given magnificent support.

Score:	R	H	E
Shreveport	1	0	0	0	6	1	0	2	0	*	9	14	0
New Orleans	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	0	3	8	1

RAPID PLAYING MARKS SECOND DAY OF TOURNEY

GRAVES, of Montgomery, One of the Crack Tennis Players in the Tourney.

PAYNE, of New Orleans, Holder of Championship in Singles for Gulf States. He Is Playing Brilliant Tennis During Big Tourney Here.

Fast playing on good courts with ideal weather and in the presence of a large crowd of spectators both fair and otherwise marked the second day of the big tennis tourney now in progress.

Only mathces in singles were played off yesterday which narrowed this part of the contest down almost to the semi-finals—only two matches in the second round remaining unplayed. These will be pulled off today, and also the semi-finals.

The matches of the second round yet unplayed are those between Seguin, of New Orleans, and Nat Thornton, of Atlanta; Payne, of New Orleans, and Carlton Smith, of Atlanta. The matches of the second round played off yesterday were those between Angier and Tichenor, in which Angier qualified for the semi-finals by winning from Tichenor by a score of 6-4, 6-2, and Patterson and Chance Thornton, in which Thornton won and qualified for the semi-finals by a score of 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Altogether ten matches were played yesterday in which Payne, of New Orleans, won from Graves, of Montgomery, by a score of 6-3, 6-3; Nat Thornton from Scott by a score of 4-6, 6-4, 8-6; Angier from Cothran, of Rome, by a score of 6-2, 6-0; Tichenor from Cothran by a score of 6-4, 8-6; Payne from Grant by a score of 6-4, 6-3; C. Smith from V. Smith by a score of 6-4, 6-4; Patterson from West by a score of 6-3 6-1; Chance Thornton from Parker by a score of 6-3, 6-4; Angier from Tichenor by a score of 6-4, 6-2, and Chance Thornton from Patterson by a score of 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

One of the prttiest matches witnessed yesterday was that between Nat Thornton and Scott, both Atlanta men. Scott took the first set by a score of 6-4, and Thornton by putting up a brilliant fight won the other two by scores of 6-4, 8-6.

Another match played in the afternoon which was watched with eager interest by the spectators was that between Grant, of Atlanta, and Payne, of New Orleans. Grant put up a beautiful fight and had little the advantage in service, but he lost out before the lightening returns and all round playing of Payne by a score of 6-4, 6-3.

The last fight of the day was between Patterson and Chance Thornton to decide which should qualify for the semi-finals. Patterson took the first set by a score of 6-4, but by brilliant playing Thornton captured the other and deciding two by scores 6-3, 6-4.

Referee Reynolds Tichenor, in speaking of the torney of yesterday said that it was one of the prettiest he had ever witnessed as the playing done by the different men has been of the gilt edged variety. Referee Tichenor is being congratulated on the excellent manner in which he is conducting the tourney.

WORLD'S RECORD BY DICK WELLES

Colt Goes 6 Furlongs in 1:11 4-5 at Washington Park.

New Mark Was Set Under Remarkable Circumstances — Colt a 6 to 5 Favorite — Kenwood Stakes Won by Prince Silver.

Chicago, June 30.—Dick Welles set a new world's record for six furlongs at Washington parq today, running the distance in 1:11 4-5. He carried 109 pounds. The former record was 1:12, held jointly by Lux Casta and Bummer. Dick Welles set the new mark under remarkable circumstances. He was almost left at the post. When the barrier flew up his head was turned and his rider not ready. He was fully a second behind his field at the start.

The pace was terrific, but Jockey Knight set out after the field. He closed the gap of about ten lengths slowly but surely. He saved ground on the turns and took the rail after entering the stretch. He advanced on the leaders at every stride and then hitched up with Runnels, who looked a winner. But Dick Welles slowly overhauled him and won by three-quarters of a length. Taking the official time as a basis, Dick Welles ran the distance in 1:10 4-5. The official time was freely disputed as it has been in numerous instances recently. There were dozens of horsemen who caught the race in 1:11 2-5. The demonstration following the victory of Dick Welles was thrilling. The colt was a 6 to 5 favorite. The fractional time for the race is: Eighth 11 4-5, quarter 23 1-5, three-eighths 34 4-5, five-eighths 59, three-quarters 1:11 4-5.

REAGAN KNOCKS OUT FORBES.

Floating Arena in the Mississippi Is the Scene of Another Fight.

Memphis, Tenn., June 30.—Johnny Reagan, of St. Louis, tonight defeated Clarence Forbes, of Chicago, in the seventh round of what was to have been a twenty-round go. The contest was held on the Mississippi river in the floating arena of the Memphis Athletic Club.

Honors were even for the first two rounds. In the third and fourth rounds Forbes was sent to the matting by the St. Louisian, but showed no bad effects. In the fifth Forbes had the best of it and floored Reagan. In the early part of the sixth Forbes was fighting well, but as the round progressed Reagan got in a hard right to stomach and the fight was plainly his from that on. Forbes was saved by the gong and was groggy as he went to his corner. Forbes was floored for the count early in the seventh round. He was groggy when he arose and flourished wildly. Reagan rushed repeatedly and Forbes' seconds threw a towel in the ring and closed the fight.

COTTON EXCITED AT THE OPENING

Realizing General as Result of Sensational Drop in Liverpool.

OPENED 7 TO 58 POINTS OFF

Rumored Clique Holdings Were Being Unloaded—In Afternoon Market Was Firm, New Crops Closing 2 to 14 Points Higher.

New York, June 30.—The cotton market opened easy at a decline of 7@58 points amidst great excitement and general realizing as a result of the sensational drop in Liverpool, renewed reports of dissensions among the bull leaders and rumors that part of the clique holdings were being unloaded. For a time it looked as though the market was at last going to pieces. August sold down to 12.42, after opening at 12.50, and September, starting at 11.50, reached 11.38 before the first rush of selling orders received anything like a check. Accompanying the rumors of clique disagreements, notices were issued to the amount of about 30,000 bales, and weather accounts were distinctly favorable. Very shortly, however, there were unmistakable evidences of renewed pool support and the market was rallied almost as rapidly as it had declined. Notices were promptly taken care of, presumably by the bull party, and advices received from New Orleans indicated that the various members of the bull pool were in harmony. A factor in checking the decline was the crop report of a trade authority showing a slight decrease in condition to have occurred during the month of June, and this, in connection with the weekly report of the weather bureau, issued at midday, aroused apprehensions that the monthly report of the government, due next Friday, would show the lowest July condition on record. During the entire afternoon the new crop ruled relatively active under these influences and the list as a whole was firm. July sold up to 12.70, and at the close was 12.80 bid, a recovery of 40 points from the opening figure. August sold up to 12.82, or to within 2 points of yesterday's finals, while September reached 11.75 or 5 points over yesterday's close. Just at the close there was a slight reaction from the best point, but the market was finally very steady 2 to 12 points higher on the new crop positions, while July was 18 and August 15 points net lower. Sales were estimated at 400,000 bales.

The Dry Goods Market.

New York, June 30.—The dry goods market shows no signs of weakening, but, on the other hand, prices are being advanced in all directions. Agents, however, are not urging the placing of liberal contracts, as the market for raw materials has caused an artificial situation, which should not be conducive to healthy trading.

Review of the New Orleans Market.

New Orleans, June 30.—The spot cotton market was quiet, but firm. Sales 150 bales. Quotations unchanged.

Notwithstanding the fact that both New York and Liverpool reported the most sensational declines of the season this morning, the local market for futures remained firm. Liverpool reported a decline of 24 points in spots and New York reported declines of 58 points in some months. In spite of this discouraging outlook for the longs they went to work quietly to support the market, and before the morning was half over they had sent prices of the new crop months up for substantial advances. Soon after 11 o'clock September was 11 points above the closing of yesterday at 11.98. October was 10 points above at 10.23, and December was 11 points above at 9.82. The bears in both Liverpool and New York made much of the fact that cotton was being loaded in Liverpool for New Orleans. Cables said that the amount to be shipped was in reality trifling, and would not amount to more than 1,070 bales. The bureau report was considered bullish, and helped put the finishing touches on the advance. Compared with yesterday's figures the list at the close showed declines of 11 points on July and 12 on August, while September had advanced 13 points, October 15 and November, December and January 20 each. Trading in summer months was very light.

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.
August	13.70	13.80	13.70	13.75
September	11.79	12.02	11.65	12.00-01
October	10.14	10.27	10.06	10.28-29
November	9.84	9.84	9.84	9.92-94
December	9.70	9.89	9.63	9.88-89
January	9.70	9.88	9.69	9.86-88

Hubbard Bros. & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, June 30.—It appears that the rumor of a disagreement amongst the pool had great effect in Europe, as it brought heavy realizing to Liverpool and here. This depressed the near by positions sharply at the opening, but the crop report of The Journal of Commerce was worse than expected, giving strength all day to the distant deliveries, which are largely oversold in this market. It has been the custom to sell December until the short interest in that position is very large. The weekly bureau report was considered as confirming the newspaper reports. If we are to be confronted with another crop not in excess of 11,104,000 bales the situation is indeed serious and prices will be upon a higher basis. The demand for the new crops, especialy December, continued to the close, which was steadier on the new than on the old crop. No evidence of support to July or August was in evidence. The spot market was quiet at 25 points decline.

Cothran & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, June 30.—It looked at one time today as though the bottom would drop out of the market. There were no indications at the colse last night of any change, and yet the three summer months lost anywhere from 30 to 60 points at the opening this morning, and January cotton sold again at 9.70 after being up at 10 cents this week. There was very little cotton thrown on the market to account for any such decline, and the smash was simply a lowering of prices on absence of support. Later on in the day the weekly weather bureau report appeared and was not received with favor—that is, while conditions were expressly stated as being very generally improved there were so many buts added as qualifying phrases that a few of the more aggressive traders went into the pit and bid the market up very easily. They were helped in this way by the fact that The Journal of Commerce does not raise its figures over those previously reported. This authority states that the showing is apparently inconsistent with the tenor of the advices, as in the large majority of instances conditions are said to be better than those existing a month ago, and goes on to say that it would be difficult to dispel the impression that correspondents have allowed the lateness of the season and the smallness of the plant to enter as too strong a factor in their figures. This is the situation in a nutshell. We believe we voice the opinion of cotton growers when we say that as far as the condition of the plant is concerned and its promise as compared with last year there really is no comparison. In fact, last year's crop was doomed from the first of July. We have a hardy, vigorous plant with abundant moisture in the south and with anything like good weather in July and August the south will raise a big crop. It is because of this condition that we are not in favor of investment purchases above 9 3-4 a pound.

Weekly Summary of Crop Conditions

Throughout the central valleys, Atlantic coast districts and the northern portion of the southern states the week had been decidedly cool, and the Atlantinc coast and east gulf districts have suffered from continuous rains. While too cool for rapid growth, crops have made favorable advancement in the central valleys, where the geneal absence of heavy rains has been favorable for cultivation and harvesting. Warmth and sunshine are greatly needed in the Atlantic coast and east gulf districts.

CORN—Further improvement in the condition of corn is generally reported, although the crop continues late.

WINTER WHEAT—Except over local areas, the weather conditions have been very favorable for winter wheat harvesting in the central valleys, but the week has been interrupted by rains in the middle Atlantic states.

SPRING WHEAT—Generally spring wheat is in thrifty condition.

OATS—Except in North Dakota and portions of South Dakota, Minnesota and the upper Ohio valley the oat crop has made very favorable advancement.

COTTON—The condition of cotton is very generally improved throughout the belt, but continues late and is suffering for cultivation in the eastern districts, where low night temperatures have checked growth. Lice and rust have caused injury in North Carolina and Missouri, and in Texas boll weevil are spreading and are more injurious. The crop is also suffering for cultiivation in portions of Louisiana and central and northern Texas. The sunshine and heat are generally needed, especially in the central and eastern districts.

TOBACCO—In the tobacco districts the weather conditions have been very favorable for this crop.

Bruce, Jones & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, June 30.—There was a decided slump in the foregin market this morning, which was not wholly unlooked for in view of the comparative weakness in the local market yesterday. Our market gave a full response to the weakness abroad, and a large decline in values occurred at the opening. There were heavy selling orders in the hands of commission houses, which caused a large amount of cotton to be dumped on the market. Prices improved immediately, and opening figures were generally the lowest of the day, shorts were moderate buyers for profits, and the bull pool placed some good orders in the pit, which materially helped the market to recover from the opening slump. The trade was nervous in regard to the purport of the weekly bureau report, upon the appearance of which values improved wonderfully. It stated that the condition was generally improved, but continues late, and is suffering from the want of cultivation. Low temperatures at night is also complained of, as also is lice and rust in North Carolina and Missori. This was construed as bullish, and the shorts made haste to get under cover. The market continued steady during the afternoon, neither side for a time caring to take the initiative. Towards the close the shorts grew nervous over the prospects of a bullish Liverpool market in the morning and covered their short sales. This buying caused a very steady close, with prices near the best of the day. With the present circumstances surrounding the market, we are of the opinion that purchases on breaks will net substantial profits.

Atlanta Brokerage Co.'s Cotton Letter

New York, June 30.—A sensational break in July cotton was the feature in the cotton market today. This option broke 58 points early in the day, while August declined some 34 points in the meantime. Such a decline as this had been predicted for many days. The market continued nervous and rather erratic and fitful. At the lower prices for the new crop deliveries there was a good demand and prices responded well to fair buying power. The late market, however, was rather quiet. The weekly government report showed general improvement, though the crop was still regarded as late.

Baxter & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, June 30.—Cotton opened at a sharp decline this morning, July losing as much as 58 points and other months 7 to 40 points on comparatively small dealings and no great excitement. Bulls were liquidating on the theory that the advance had ben ample and that a reaction was long since due to occur. Cables were way down, especially for spots, which showed 1-4 pence less. Despite all this, there was a special report by The Journal of Commerce showing the condition to be a shade under last month, which was 75 per cent. This was decidedly surprising even to the bulls, and if it should appear that the figures are anywhere near correct when reports come in from other sources, there can be no doubt but the lower tendency of late must be promptly arrested. It is possible after all that the crop has not improved, as was supposed, and making due allowance for exaggeration by correspondents of the newspaper referred to, it is evident that they have not overestimated the poor condition by over 10 per cent, which would still leave the condition no better than last year. Of other crop months rallied 10 to 20 points after the opening, while the new crop recovered all they had lost. The undertone, however, was weak and trading slow. Cables were 4 to 14 points lower. The weekly bureau report was more bearish than expected, but this had no effect on prices. Port receipts 7,300; last year 10,200.

WHEAT WAS ACTIVE LIQUIDATION HEAVY

Advices from the Northwest Were Decidedly Bearish.

REPORTED GENERAL RAINS.

Kansas Crop Estimated Largest on Record—September Lost 1 7-8c. Corn and Oats Were 1-8c Lower — Provisions Were Off.

Chicago, June 30.—Favorable weather caused an easy feeling in wheat, September closing 1 7-8c lower. September corn was 1-8c lower, oats off 1-8 and provisions from 12 1-2@15 to 37 1-2c lower.

Wheat ruled active with a large amount of liquidation going on throughout the entire session. Opening prices were weak on decidedly bearish reports from the northwest, being to the effect that rains had fallen over a large section of the spring wheat belt, thus dispelling all fears of a drouth. A special Kansas crop report estimated this year's yeld at about one hundred million bushels—the largest on record—and under these influences September was down 5-8@3-4c to 7-8@1c at the start at 77 1-4@77 1-2c. The strength in corn helped the market for a time, and with firm cables September advanced to 77 3-4c, but with outside markets showing material losses and on an absence of support, prices again slumped off, September decling to 76 1-4c and closing at 76 1-4@76 3-8c, a net loss of 1 7-8c. Clearances equaled 179,900 bushels. Primary receipts were 368,300, against 509,100 a year ago. Receipts 41 cars, two contract. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 255 cars, a total for the three points of 296@369 last week and 382 a year ago.

Corn was surprisingly strong in the face of the weakness in wheat, the higher cables and the good cash demand being largely responsible for the better feeling. There was considerable liquidation as a result of the favorable weather conditions, but the offerings were readily absorbed by commission houses. The weakness in wheat was a late factor, and much of the gain was lost, September closing 1-8c lower at 50 5-8c after selling between 50 1-2@51 3-4c. Receipts 582 cars, 77 contract.

There was only a moderate trade in oats, but prices were firm the greater part of the day, due to a good commission house demand. The break in wheat toward noon resulted in a reaction in prices and the close was about stealy with September 1-8c lower at 34c after it had sold between 33 7-8@34 1-2. Receipts 318 cars.

Liquidation by local longs caused a decline in provisions, and much of yesterday's advance was lost. Late buying by brokers caused a steadier tone, but prices showed little recovery. September pork closed 37 1-2c lower at $16.62 1-2; September lard 15c off at $8.30 and ribs 12 1-2@15c lower at $8.65@8.677 1-2.

Atlanta Brokerage Co.'s Grain Letter

Chicago, June 30.—There was further trading in the wheat market today and there was a further reduction in the price level. The bears appeared to be confident of their position, and in some cases substantial fresh lines were put out. Longs sold quite a lot and dumpings helped the market to recede. The weather map continued as the principal feature of influence. Rains in some sections of the spring wheat country proved to be the bear factor of greatest importance. The country offerings were small. There was a fair cash demand. The clearances were light. The late market reflected considerable difference of opinion with reference to the future. The weather map was still the key to the general situation.

There was a steady market for corn early in the day onaccount of the strong cables. Light stocks were still reported. The receipts were moderate. The foreign demand was slow. The crop news was mixed and primary movements showed liberal accumulation. The late market was rather nervous.

The trade in oats was rather small. The crop and weather news was more favorable, and the Illinois state crop report was actually bearish for a change.

There was considerable selling of pork and ribs in the provision pit, but with a rather limited trade.

Baxter & Co.'s Grain Letter.

Chicago, June 30.—Wheat was active and prices showed a quick decline on the firmer weather conditions. There were generous rains in the northwest, and fine clear weather in the winter wheat states. Prices broke, steadying later, and became rather quiet. Foreign markets were generally better, but there was a little foreign selling again. The report on the Kansas crop was somewhat more favorable than expected, pointing to a 90,000,000 bushel crop, against about 46,000,000 bushels last year and 99,000,000 two years ago. The trade was a little inclined to developments after the early break, and with the holidays close at hand there was some disposition to even up transactions.

The trade in corn was active, the market showing decided advance after a little decline at the opening. This advance was on a lot of unfavorable reports from the west claiming a very unsatisfactory condition of the crop and reports of large buying by active traders at Chicago. The weather map showed very favorable conditions for corn.

There was a moderately active trade in hog products, prices showing a little decline during the morning, steadying later.

Cothran & Co.'s Grain Letter.

Chicago, June 30.—Wheat—The closing was very heavy, bullish sentiment having evaporated to a great extent, and it now looks as if wheat would have to work lower, considering the changed situation in the northwest, with values out of line from an expert standpoint. Rallies are likely to appear, and they should be taken advantage of to make sales on.

Corn—There was a little strength early on the increase in contract stocks, but at noon turned weak. July, especially, on buying thought to be for Armour and Cudahy, while rains in Iowa were also so bullish a feature the advance did not hold, short interests having been driven in and values worked back about as fast as they advanced. The crop is making good progress, but on any further show of weakness we would favor purchases.

Oats worked off with wheat and corn, and while there was buying by the Howe crowd, July turned very heavy and was taken as an indication of largely increased receipts. We would favor sales on all advances.

Provisions—Hogs were higher, but there was good selling by Cudahy, while local buyers of yesterday threw over their holdings. We look for further liquidation and lower values.

ANIMAL STORIES.

Praise Is Not Everything.

Did you ever hear of the bad fortune that came to poor little Rags, the terrier, by being too greatly praised? No? Well, this is how it all came about: Rags was a lapdog whose great-great-great-grandfather came from the island off the coast of Scotland called Skye, so they called him a Skye terrier.

He was very fond of his ancestry. His hair was long and silky and a beautiful shade of blue, and he was extremely vain of his personal appearance. So was his mistress, who used to wash and comb him carefully every day.

"What makes your hair so blue?" the old rabbit-hound used to ask him.

"Because my blood is blue," he would answer, sharply, tilting his little pug nose in the air in disdain.

The poor hound was only an humble creature, whose grandfather came from New Jersey, and he didn't understand about blue blood.

"I shall enter Rags at the dog show,

HE WAS HUNGRY ENOUGH TO EAT THE BOWL.

papa," said his young mistress one morning. "I feel sure he will get a prize."

Oh! how proud Rags felt. He wouldn't speak to any of the other dogs for several days before the great show came. "I shall make a name for myself," he said, "and do honor to the house of Skye."

The day came and oh! what scrubbing and combing and brushing Rags received, and how he turned up his nose at the others.

How proud he felt when the judges came near, and how his blue hair shone as they tied a great blue ribbon about his little neck.

But his honors were his sorrows. That night the stable boy put a large bowl of bread and milk before our hero. He was hungry enough; but whenever he bent his head to lap his milk the beautiful blue bows would be soaked. He tried this way and that, but to no purpose. He was hungry enough to eat the bowl, but not for all the world would he spoil his prize. At length he gave it up, sat down on his little blue tail, opened his little pink mouth and sent forth a heart-rending wail of woe.

"Glad I didn't get one," said the Spaniel.

"Serves him right for having blue blood," said the rabbit-hound. "Dinner is better than blue ribbon."

The drowsy, sleepy feeling I [illegible] has entirely disappeared. The [illegible] has left me and my rheuma[illegible] entirely. I am satisfied if anyone so afflicted will give Radway's Pills a trial they will surely cure them, for I believe it all comes from the system being out of order—the liver not doing its work."

SUPREME COURT OF GEORGIA

Notable Opinions Handed Down Yesterday Morning.

LOCAL CASES ARE DECIDED

Court of Last Resort Brings to a Close a Number of Issues Long Pending.

607. Reynolds & Hamby Estate Mortgage Company Limited et al. v. Kingsbery et al. Receivership, etc. Before Judge Kimsey. White superior court.

Simmons, C. J.—1. At the interlocutory hearing of a petition for injunction, demurrers to the petition can be considered only as showing cause why an interlocutory injunction should not be granted; and the judge cannot at chambers, before the appearance term, either overrule or sustain such demurrers. In the present case the demurrers were not such as to compel the refusal of the interlocutory injunction.

2. Under the petition and affidavits, the defendant in execution was not a trader within the meaning of the civil code, section 2721. The plaintiffs being unsecured creditors, and their allegations and proof not coming up to the requirements of the civil code, sections 2716-2721, the court erred in appointing a receiver to take charge of the debtor's property. The petition contained, however, grounds for equitable intervention outside of these sections; and therefore it was not error for the court to take jurisdiction.

3. Where in an equitable proceeding it is made to appear that a sheriff, by virtue of a mortgage fi. fa. and a general execution, both in favor of the same plaintiff and predicated upon the same cause of action, against an insolvent debtor, has levied upon and advertised for sale in bulk nearly 4,000 acres of land on which are situated five developed gold mines and two canals which supply water to the mines, constituting all of the debtor's property, and that if the land is sold in bulk it will not bring its real value and the unsecured creditors will be left without means of realizing on their claims, and that the land is so situated and laid off that it can and should be sold in lots or groups of lots, selling the different mines separately, without damage to the plaintiff in fi. fa. and to the benefit of the unsecured creditors, it is not error for the court, at the instance of such unsecured creditors, to enjoin the sheriff from selling as he proposes.

4. The facts of this case differ from those in Reeves v. Bolles, 95 Ga. 402. There the judgment debtor asked to have the sale by the sheriff enjoined until he could have the land surveyed and laid off in lots or parcels. Here creditors of the debtor apply for the injunction against the sheriff, and show that the land consists of different lots and groups of lots which had been laid off long prior to the date of the judgment; and that a sale in bulk would be detrimental to their interests, while a sale in parcels would not lessen the security of the plaintiff in fi. fa.

I. L. Oakes and H. H. Perry, for plaintiffs in error.

G. S. Kytle, W. A. Charters, S. R. Atkinson and H. H. Dean, contra.

608. Moore et al. v. Lunceford. Complaint for land. Before Judge Holden. Taliaferro superior court.

Fish, J.—No error of law was complained of. The evidence authorized the verdict, and the discretion of the trial judge in refusing to grant a new trial will not be controlled.

Judgment affirmed.

Samuel H. Sibley, contra.

609. Cole et al. v. Stanley, executrix, et al. Consolidation of cases. Before Judge Littlejohn. Webster superior court.

Cobb, J.—1. An order passed upon agreement of counsel in three cases, the parties in two of them being the same, while in the third the parties are not identical with those in the other two, "that the three above-stated cases be tried together," does not have the effect to consolidate or merge the three cases into one, the effect of such order being simply to provide that the cases be tried together, each case, except for this purpose, preserving its complete identity. Brown v. Louisville R. Co., Center v. Fickett Paper Co., Feb. 11, and Harris v. Gano & Jennings, April 8, 1903.

2. When it was "agreed during the progress of the trial of said three cases" that they be withdrawn from the jury and all questions of law and fact submitted to the court, and the court heard the cases and rendered separate judgments in each case, the losing parties in the three cases could not bring to this court for review the judgments in the three cases in a single bill of exceptions. The writ of error on such a bill of exceptions will be dismissed in this court for want of jurisdiction. See the cases cited in the preceding note.

Writ of error dismissed. (No further opinion.)

E. A. Hawkins and J. B. Hudson, contra.

610. Savannah, Florida, and Western Railway Company v. Hatcher. Damages. Before Judge Dart. Ware superior court.

Lamar, J.—A new trial is required, upon the express rulings in Americus R. Co. v. Luckie, 87 Ga. 5, and Macon & Aug. R. Co. v. Moore, 99 Ga. 229.

Judgment reversed.

Kay, Bennet & Conyers, and S. W. Hitch, for plaintiff in error.

Leon A. Wilson and Toomer & Reynolds, contra.

611. Grant, administrator, v. Noel et al. Application for leave to sell land. Before Judge Butt. Talbot superior court.

Candler, J.—1. Any one or more heirs of a deceased person may object to an application filed by his administrator to sell lands of the estate. No notice by the objector to any of the other heirs is necessary, the only issue being whether the ordinary shall grant the order to sell. In a case, therefore, where objections to the administrator's application were filed by six heirs, it was not a ground to dismiss the objections that an other heir or heirs had not objected or been served with notice of those filed, or in any way been made a party to the proceedings.

2. This court will not consider a ground of a motion for a new trial complaining of the refusal of the trial judge to allow questions to be asked of a witness, when it does not appear that it was stated to the judge what answers the witness was expected to make.

3. There was no error in the charge of the court complained of. The verdict was not contrary to law or the evidence; and the court did not err in overruling the motion for a new trial.

Judgment affirmed. (No further opinion.)

J. J. Bull for plaintiff in error.

A. J. Perryman and Persons & McGehee contra.

612. Brewer v. Nutt, tax collector et al. Petition for injunction. Before Judge Reagan. Spalding superior court.

Simmons, C. J.—Whether the plaintiff in error should or should not have paid the specific tax imposed upon the sale of malt liquors by manufacturers, the tax colector, under the decision in Jones v. Stewart (June 4), had no authority to issue execution against him. The execution was, therefore, void, and its enforcement should have been enjoined.

Judgment reversed.

Cobb and Lamar, JJ., dissenting.—For the reasons stated in the dissenting opinion in Jones v. Stewart, supra, we cannot agree with the majority of the court in the conclusion reached by them, that the tax execution was void.

(No further opinion.)

Estes & Jones and W. E. H. Searcy, Jr., for plaintiff.

O. H. B. Bloodworth contra.

613. Ricks v. Georgia Southern and Florida Railway Company. Damages. Before Judge Griffin. City court of Valdosta.

Fish, J.—While it appeared from the testimony introduced by the plaintiff that the defendant railway company was chargeable with a violation of its duty as a common carrier, in that its train was not stopped at the station at which he wished to board it a sufficient length of time to afford him a reasonable opportunity to do so, yet as he confessedly, in order that he might not be left at that station, voluntarily asumed the risk of attempting to get aboard after the train was started and while it was in motion, the trial judge committed no error in granting a nonsuit, the plaintiff having made no effort to show that the servants of the company were guilty of any misconduct save that of not stopping the train at the station a reasonable length of time.

Judgment affirmed. (No further opinion.)

G. A. Whitaker for plaintiff.

John I. Hall, R. C. Jordan and Cranford & Walker for defendant.

614. Price v. Cohen, Son & Co. Attachment. Before Judge Seabrook. Berrien superior court.

Cobb, J.—The attachment provided for by the civil code, section 4543, may be issued by a judge of the superior court, upon the petition of the creditor, supported by "affidavit, or testimony if he can control the same." It is no ground for dismissing an attachment issued by the judge, that the only testimony offered in support of the petition is an affidavit attested by a commercial notary public and signed by one who describes himself as attorney at law for a person other than the one applying for the attachment. If such an affidavit is void as an affidavit verifying the petition, for either of the reasons stated, the judge can consider the same as "testimony," and is sufficient for this purpose, grant the attachment.

Judgment affirmed.

F. S. Harrell for plaintiff in error.

C. W. Fulwood contra.

615. Miller & Co. v. Mattox et al. Levy and claim. Before Judge Dart. Clinch superior court.

Candler, J.—Since several executions in favor of different persons cannot, when levied on the same property, be met by a single claim, the plaintiffs in fi. fa. may, on an appeal by themselves from a justice's court judgment finding the property not subject, move to dismiss the claim; and the effect of granting such motion is to make a final disposition of "the case" in their favor.

Judgment affirmed.

S. C. Townsend for plaintiff in error.

616. Fussell v. Dennard, administrator, et al. Equitable petition. Before Judge Dart. Coffee superior court.

Lamar, J.—1. The ordinary has no power to grant leave to sell without the notice and advertisement required by law.

2. While there is every presumption in favor of the regularity and validity of an order to sell, yet when the record produced shows that it was granted by the ordinary on the day the petition was presented, and without notice and advertisement, the same is void, and a purchaser thereunder acquires no title.

3. Even if timber rights and sawmills connected therewith could be treated as wild land within the meaning of the civil code, section 3448, the ordinary could not authorize a private sale without due notice; and a purchaser under an order granted without advertisement or other citation acquires no title.

4. Where it is apparent from the record that the parties are the same, a bill of exceptions will not be dismissed because of a slight variance from the names and titles of the parties as set out in the original record.

Judgment reversed.

A. E. Cochran, S. W. Hitch and Z. D. Harrison, for plaintiff.

J. L. Bankston, Quincey & McDonald, and J. L. Sweat, for defendants.

617. Pate et al. v. Wylly & Company et al. Money rule. Before Judge Evans. Wilcox superior court.

Fish, J.—1. A partnership is not bound by a judgment rendered against a member thereof in a suit to which it was not a party, and which was brought against such member in his individual capacity to dispossess him of property over which he had assumed control, claiming that the firm of which he was a member had title thereto.

2. Under the facts brought to light on the trial of this case, a finding in favor of the prevailing party was wholly unwarranted, the evidence showing conclusively that such party never acquired title to the property in dispute, either by an actual or a constructive delivery of the same by the person who was in possession of it as owner.

Hal Lawson and E. D. Graham, contra.

618. Chestatee Pyrites Company v. Cavender's Creek Gold Mining Company. Petition for injunction. Before Judge Kimsey. Lumpkin superior court.

Simmons, C. J.—1. The rule that this court will not interfere with the discretion of the trial judge in granting or refusing an injunction where the evidence is conflicting does not apply when the question to be decided is one of law.

2. Where, therefore, a lower riparian proprietor files an equitable petition praying for an interlocutory injunction against an upper proprietor who is threatening to interfere with the petitioner's rights in a non-navigable stream below such lands; and where it appears from the record that the defendant, a non-resident of the state, admits the contemplated trespass and defends solely upon the ground that the diversion of the water will not damage the petitioner to any material extent, it is error to refuse the injunction: (1) because the diversion of the water would be an injury to the petitioner's property and property rights; (2) because the injunction would prevent a multiplicity of suits; and (3) because the injunction would restrain acts of the defendant that might with the lapse of time become the foundation of an adverse right. Civil code, section 3057; Hendrick v. Cook, 4 Ga. 262; Pool v. Lewis, 41 Ga. 162; Webb v. Mfg. Co., 3 Sumner, 189; Ang. Waterc., section 499; Gould on Waters, section 513; 1 Add Torts (Wood's ed.) section 109, note 1; 3 Pom. Ep. Jur., section 1357.

3. This case differs from that of White v. Land Co., 96 Ga. 415. In that case the question was as to the measure of damages on the final hearing before a jury, while in this case the hearing was interlocutory, and the judge was without jurisdiction to pass upon the amount of the damages, the right to a temporary injunction turning on the admitted injury to the plaintiff's rights without regard to the amount of his damages. Though the threatened injury may have been such as to result in no material damage to the plaintiff, and though the commission of the trespass would greatly have benefited the defendant, the latter should still have been enjoined; for 'the necessities of one man's business cannot be the standard of another's rights." Wheatley v. Chrisman, 24 Pa. St. 302.

Judgment reversed. (No further opinion.)

W. A. Charters and H. H. Perry, for plaintiff.

J. W. H. Underwood and H. H. Dean, for defendant.

619. Mansfield et al. v. Richardson et al. Damages. Before Judge Holden. Wilkes superior court.

Lamar, J.—1. Where grain is alleged to have been set on fire by reason of a defect in an engine belonging to the defendant and used in operating a threshing machine, the plaintiff was not bound to guard against the consequences of the defect in the engine until he knew or ought to have known that his property was in danger of being damaged or destroyed.

2. Under the civil code, section 3830, the word "avoid" is of broad and comprehensive meaning.

3. In cases of personal injuries the plaintiff as a conscious human agent is bound to exercise ordinary care to avoid the consequences of the defendant's negligence, by remaining away, going away, or getting out of the way of a probable or known danger; and if his duty requires him to remain in the presence of danger, he must exercise the ordinary care required of a prudent man under the particular circumstances.

4. The same principle applies in suits for injuries to property; but, it being inert and unable to act for itself, the owner is not ordinarily called upon to take active steps to avoid the consequences of the defendant's negligence until the danger is seen, or he knows that damage is likely to occur to his property as a result of some force or instrumentality under the control of the defendant.

Judgment reversed.

B. S. Irvin and S. H. Hardeman, for plaintiffs.

William Wynne and Colley & Sims, for defendants.

620. Barfield v. Southern Railway Company. Damages. Before Judge Reagan. Fayette superior court.

Cobb, J.—When this case was here before (115 Ga. 724), it was held that the plaintiff was not entitled to recover, because it affirmatively appeared from his own testimony that he could by the exercise of ordinary care have avoided the injuries for which he sued. The evidence in the present case is substantially the same as that in the record of the previous case; and therefore there was no error in granting a non-suit.

Judgment affirmed. (No further opinion.)

E. E. Spurlin and R. L. Berner for plaintiff.

Arthur Heyman and Wise & Blalock, for defendant.

FORREST & GEORGE ADAIR

THE DAY IN WALL STREET.

New York, June 30.—There were almost as many shares of stocks that changed hands during the first hour of trading today as there were for the first two hours in the newly awakened activity of the previous day's market. This first hour of trading had every appearance of animation and well sustained strength, but the absorption power of the market was pretty well exhausted by this spurt and the dull period of firmness which followed gave in the last hour to a general reaction under professional profit taking. The slight fluctuations during the first hour in view of the decided activity gave sufficient warning that profit taking was going on freely. This morning's purchasers, however, had less success when they attempted to take their profits in the last hour. The day's net changes show very small gains left for any of the speculative leaders, and some of them went slightly below last night under the selling of the last hour. Yesterday's heavy buying and sharp upward movement in Reading was sufficiently explained by the statement of net earnings for May showing an increase for all the companies over the corresponding month of last year of $1,420,079. This showing gave color to the current reports that dividends would be commenced on the second preferred stocks. Combined with the continuing effects of the Pennsylvania stock subscription, the coal carrying railroads were made very strong for a time. Meantime, in another department of the list, the Wabash debenture B bonds were being freely sold at an extreme decline of 1 7-8 owing to the disappointment of holders that the directors, at their meeting yesterday, decided not to disburse any of the surplus earnings available for an interest payment upon northwestern states, where the drought conditions have threatened the spring wheat crop, was a strengthening influence on stocks. Wheat reacted sharply, corn, more moderately after a period of strength and cotton violently. In the last half hour, after the profit taking movement had spent its force, United States Steel preferred was suddenly marked up 2 1-4 over last night on comparatively light dealings. The market closed unsteady.

The cessation of the pressure of liquidation against the United States 2d 5s seemed to be regarded as the favorable opportunity for marking up the preferred stock. The bond market generally was dull and firm. Total sales, par value, $3,430,000.

United States bonds were all unchanged on the last call.

Money on call firm at 4 1-2@10 per cent, closing at 6@10 per cent; time money steady; 60 days' 4 per cent; 90 days' 4 1-4; six months 5 1-4@5 1-2; prime mercantile paper 5 1-2@5 3-4.

Sterling exchange heavy with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.87.20@4.87.25 for demand and at $4.84.85@4.84.90 for 60 days; posted rates $4.85 1-2@4.88 1-2; commercial bills $4.84 1-2.

Bar silver 52 5-8c.

Mexican dollars 41c.

Government bonds steady.

Railroad bonds firm.

Baxter & Co.'s Stock Letter.

New York, June 30.—In the early dealings the market showed a continuance of the bouyancy which was developed yesterday. Considerable activity was enjoyed and interest was spread over an unusually large list of issues. The day started out with sharp declines in the grain and cotton markets, which were gratifying to the financial element, and which reflected an improvement in tthe crop reports. London sent much higher quotations and was a buyer on balance. The market reached its high points in the early afternoon, when gains were shown in the railway list of 1 per cent and over. In the afternoon there was some contraction in activity and in breadth of speculation. A slightly reactionary tendency grew out of the late flurry in call money and the government weekly weather report, which was not regarded as wholly satisfactory. But the concessions were only moderate, and in final dealings many prices returned again to best points of the day.

Foreign Finances.

London, June 30.—Consols for money 92 7-16; do for the account 92 1-16. Atchison 71 1-4; do preferred 95 3-4; Illinois Central 138; Louisville and Nashville 115 1-2.

Bar silver steady at 24 1-4.

Money 3@3 1-2.

Short bills 2 1-2@2 5-8; three months' bills 2 1-2@2 5-8 per cent.

Paris, June 30.—Three per cent rentes 90 francs 85 centimes for account. Exchange on London 25 francs 14 centimes for checks.

The Treasury Statement.

Washington, June 30.—Today's treasury balances, exclusive of the gold reserve, show: Available cash balances $231,545,011; gold $102,283,109.

Atlanta Brokerage Co.'s Stock Letter

New York, June 30.—The improvement which was noted in the stock market Monday continued Thursday morning and with notable force. There was much favorable comment with regard to the success of the Pennsylvania stock deal. The Reading statement for May showing a net increase of $1,420,000 in earning was the leader. The money market was favorably interpreted. Trade reports coming to hand were satisfactory. The crop information was satisfactory, reported rains in the northwest resulting in more optimistic expressions with regard to the spring wheat crop. Sentiment continued well maintained up to the close, when a relatively firm undertone was prevalent.

Port receipts today were larger than they have been in some time—7,500, against 2,263 last year. FAIR AND CONTINUED WARM.

This Is Weather Prediction for Today—Summary of Weekly Crop Report.

Fair and continued warm is the prediction of the local weather bureau for the weather today in Atlanta and vicinity.

The following is a summary of the weekly crop bulletin, as issued by Section Director J. B. Marbury:

"The rainfall for the week was unevenly distributed; in some southern sections it was heavy and dameging, but in middle and northern districts the showers that occurred during the latter part of the week were very beneficial. Considerable progress was made in cultivation of crops, although many fields are still grassy, owing to scarcity of labor. Cotton improved slightly during the week, but continues very small for the season, and is fully three weeks late. Plants are blooming in southern counties, and squares are forming in a few middle and northern localities. The continuance of low night temperatures is a detrimental feature. Some correspondents state that a good crop may be made if the season is very late, but the present outlook is discouraging. Corn is making fair growth, but tasseling low. Treshing of wheat and oats continues in northern districts, and is generally completed elsewhere; yields variable. Apples are plentiful; peaches short, but good quality; melons late and poor; cane and potatoes fine."
